WARREN COUNTY

Warren County will be required to have a public defender's office under legislation now in the General Assembly. The office now is optional, but not required by state law. If the bill passes, it would provide free counsel to anyone charged with a crime in the county court system, should the defendants be either unable to pay an attorney or specifically request a public defender. North Warren is starting its first service club. Some 30 persons were at the third meeting of the group, which has applied for a Kiwanis Club charter. The group meets on Tuesday evenings in the North Warren Community Hall. Page B1.

A check of old newspaper files and public documents spiked rumors that there are legal complications in the way of a proposal to use the Warren borough airport for an industrial park complex. The borough apparently has clear title to the land and can sell it to private developers if it chooses to do so. The question is in the hands of the council's planning committee. Page One.

PENNSYLVANIA

A Kane area man was arrested at his home after police spent Tuesday night and Wednesday morning searching for him. A store owner surprised a burglar in his business and thought he had wounded him. Police said the burglar was not wounded, as reported in area newspapers yesterday. Page B1.

The national economic slowdown is affecting Pennsylvania, two business analysts at Penn State University reported. The Department of Labor and Industry, meanwhile, reported that employment rose by 6,000 persons during March and the unemployment rolls dropped to 3.6 per cent, a record low for March. Page B7.

Warren Airport Land Use Not Restricted

BY BETTY RICE

An offer this week to Warren borough council from the Allegheny Industrial Park group to purchase the Warren airport for $100,000 in fee simple, has stirred up speculation that complications may exist. Some claim that should the property in question cease to be used as an airport, it would revert to a local estate.

It appears this is a fallacy. Back in October 23, 1928, the Morning Mirror told of the birth of the Warren Airport, which was proposed by a group of refineries who appointed a special committee. This committee was comprised of the late Lewis C. Jamieson of the Viking Oil Corp.; Harry R. Lewis of the Conewango Refining Co. and the late G. Glean Brockway, of the G.G. Brockway Co.

These men entered into an agreement Oct. 10, 1928, with the late J.P. Jefferson, trustee to lease the present airport site for five years with an option to buy the parcel of land. The article noted that at any time during the term of the lease, the borough of Warren would have an option to take over the tract, but reimburse Brockway, Jamieson, and Lewis, amounts advanced in development, equipment and maintenance.

This is the phrase in that original agreement—which no doubt sparked the current rumors—“The committee for themselves, their appointees, successors and appointees, as a condition hereto covenant in said lease when executed, to use said land only for the purposes of a Flying Field and for purpose allied and appertaining thereto during the term of said lease.”

The borough of Warren acquired the airport in 1934 and annexed the land. In a document filed now at the municipal building and signed by F.J. McCoy, H.W. Conarro, A. C. Jackson, G.G. Brockway, Harry R. Lewis, Hugh Jamieson and Lewis C. Jamieson, the phrase “cancels the lease” appears and turns the airport over to the borough. These men operated at the Conewango Realty Company and with J.P. Jefferson and E.D. Wetmore, offered to donate the land and facilities to the borough.

The Warren Airways officials according to newspaper reports dated April 4, 1934, state the donation consisted of all the lands and buildings of the airport with the company in turn leasing the site from the borough at a nominal rental.

The actual donation value of the land, it was reported, was conservatively estimated at $6,500 and the improvements and buildings at $17,000.

Council on Monday night received a letter from the principals of Allegheny Industrial Park, Ernest C. Miller and J. Albert Lorange, making the $100,000 offer and envisioning an industrial park complex as well as a possible limited area for new residences and shopping center.

Jamestown Port Work Discussed

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — The Jamestown Municipal Airport Commission, meeting yesterday afternoon, passed a resolution to present to the city council proposing that Jamestown accept matching federal funds for the runway turnaround project at the Jamestown Municipal Airport.

Commission chairman Samuel Alessi said last night that the total cost of the project would be $115,000, half of which would be paid for by the federal government and half by the city of Jamestown.

Alessi also said that the Airport Commission authorized him to submit an application for federal aid for the airport to be used in 1968. The deadline for filing is April 26. The commission also heard a report from Donald Skinner, a commission member, that the runway lights are in very poor condition and should be replaced at an estimated cost of $20,000. FUTURE OF WARREN AIRPORT PRESENTLY UNDER DISCUSSION

More buzzing than just the hum of small aircraft may be heard before the outcome of the Warren airport is finally settled. An industrial group has made a $100,000 offer to borough council for the port as part of a new industrial park complex. In an original agreement in 1928, however, the area could only be leased for a flying field. Since 1934 the land has been annexed by the borough. (Photo by Mahan)

Soviets Predict Probing Flights

By ANTHONY C. COLLINGS
MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet space pioneers predicted yesterday new manned space flights — after a gap of more than two years. There were hints of cosmonauts probing deeper into space than before.

At a Kremlin meeting celebrating the sixth anniversary of his achievements as the first man to make a space flight, Yuri A. Gagarin said he and other cosmonauts “are making ourselves ready for new starts.”

“We have been more than once in near-earth space,” he said. “There will be new, more complicated flights, and we are getting ready for them.”

At the meeting, attended by top leaders including Leonid I. Brezhnev, Communist party general secretary, Gagarin made only an indirect reference to the possibility of a manned flight this year.

“All of us pilot-cosmonauts are getting ready to worthily celebrate the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution on Nov. 7, he said.

If this context, he quoted fellow cosmonaut Andrian Nikolayev as saying: “If I am entrusted with carrying out a space flight, I will use all my knowledge, all my efforts to fulfill it as best as possible.”

Another cosmonaut, Alexei A. Leonov, the first man to walk in space, predicted that new Soviet spaceships would carry more than three men and leave near-earth space for probes farther out. Leonov's space walk on March 18, 1965, was the last manned flight reported by the Soviet Union.

Unconfirmed reports here have told of plans for spacecraft carrying up to nine cosmonauts. Other rumored plans are for manned spaceships to circle the moon without landing, then return to earth.

During the gap since the last Soviet manned flight, U.S. astronauts have perfected space walks, rendezvous and docking techniques and taken almost all records for manned flight.

The Russians have not yet achieved rendezvous and docking maneuvers.

By JOHN D. MCCLAIN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Long-haul truckers resumed highballing across the nation's highways yesterday after the end of a three-day lockout that did not last long enough to be felt by most of the country.

But the auto industry, unable to get parts shipments, still had some 24,000 vehicles laid off. Other industries also continued to feel the impact of delayed deliveries of raw materials and parts.

Tons of merchandise remained stacked up at loading docks and warehouses, where some spokesmen said it would take perhaps a week to return to normalcy.

Ninety per cent of Chicago's vital truck fleet, however, remained idle yesterday as contract negotiations continued between 4,700 trucking firms and 56,000 drivers and dock workers who were not parties to the tentative agreement reached here.

The nationwide lockout, which threatened to curtail drastically much of the nation's supply lines, ended early yesterday after the Teamsters Union and Trucking Employers Inc. reached a proposed settlement that reportedly includes a 50-cent hourly wage boost spread over three years.

“We are notifying all our associations and carriers around the country, requesting that they go back to work,” reported M. M. Gordon, president of Trucking Employers, whose 1,500 members comprise 65 per cent of the nation's long-distance trucking industry.

Trucking Employers firms from coast to coast responded almost immediately although a Teamsters official in Cincinnati, Ohio, said it would take 24 to 48 hours before all idled drivers there are recalled.

“Some of them have gone fishing and it'll take some time to round them up,” the union spokesman said. The employers estimated that 250,000 Teamsters were with-

LBJ Will Seek Tariff Concessions for Latins

By KENNETH L. DAVIS
PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — President Johnson, in his first statement at the hemisphere summit conference, promised Latin Americans yesterday he would try to gain worldwide tariff concessions for developing nations and consider granting them greater freedom to spend some kinds of U.S. aid money.

In his initial conference appearance, Johnson thus tackled two of the toughest points at issue in the meeting — trade and aid between the United States and Latin America.

The President made his remarks at a private meeting that preceded the formal opening ceremony of the summit.

Johnson and 17 other American heads of state convened formal meetings behind closed doors in a converted gambling casino for a long series of speeches.

Although Johnson's statements on the two major points at issue were calculated to get a good reception from his fellow presidents, actually he made no hard and fast commitments.

On trade, he promised to explore the possibility of “temporary tariff advantages for all developing countries by all industrialized countries.” As for aid, Johnson promised only to “try to establish whether we can agree that aid fund for capital projects and related technical assistance can be used in alliance for progress countries in ways which will protect the U.S. balance of payments.”

This type of aid probably amounts to no more than $250 million a year. Aid grants now are tied to a requirement that they be spent in the United States, Latin Americans would prefer to be able to spend U.S. aid money anywhere in the hemisphere.

As the session began, President Fernando Belaunde Terry of Peru announced a plan to check the flow of capital escaping by the millions of dollars from Latin America — one of the economic problems.

He said the presidents of Latin America are planning a hemisphere-wide common stock market to provide an outlet for domestic capital and to attract new capital from industrialized nations.

The stock market plan will be in the final declaration to be issued by the summit meeting tomorrow, he added. One of the major sticking points was the Latin American desire to be able to spend Alliance for Progress dollars anywhere in the hemisphere. Now those dollars must be spent in the United States.

Lincoln Gordon, U.S. assistant secretary of state for inter-

American affairs, told reporters President Johnson might give the Latins their answer in the closed-door sessions.

Another vexing point arose from Latin demands for greater share of U.S. markets on a preferential basis — meaning special tariff concessions.

Gordon conceded that the industrial United States and lesser developed Latin America naturally figured to collide. Johnson has to deal with this touchy topic also.

Johnson hoped to nail down agreement for a common market in Latin America that will integrate the nations' economies and dampen trade rivalries.

But he was expected to give only tranquilizing answers to Latin American demands for more aid beyond the $1 billion a year of the Alliance for Progress and permission to spend aid dollars somewhere other than in the United States.

Latin countries voluntarily assumed responsibility for establishing the common market and a working group finally reached a patched-up compromise on the preamble to the presidents' final summit statement.

The preamble—battleground of those who wanted politics made a part of it and those who wanted to stick to the summit theme of economics and humanity—ended as a synthesis of Brazilian and U.S. proposals

Murderer Half-Carried To Gas Chamber Death

By HAROLD V. STREETER
SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Policeman killer Aaron Mitchell puffed nervously on his last cigarette, moaned loudly twice, walked out of his cell, collapsed and was carried the last 13 steps to his death yesterday in California's gas chamber.

“Pin Jesus Christ,” the bearded Negro gasped — his face puffy from nightlong crying — in his last conscious moment.

Mitchell, 37, whose left arm was taped where he cut himself with a razor Tuesday, was the first person executed in California in more than four years. His execution was the first in the nation since last August.

Within two hours of his death, a legislative committee in Sacramento rejected a bill to abolish the death penalty.

A packed crowd of 58 witnesses peered through the windows of the octagonal death chamber in San Quentin Prison as the potassium cyanide pellets were dropped at 10:04 a.m.

Outside, some Episcopal Church bells of the San Francisco Bay area tolled mournfully in brilliant sunshine that sparked the bay waters lapping the prison's shore.

The tolling was requested by Bishop C. Kilmer Myers, “in penitence for our part in this judicial and legalized murder.” The dean of Bishop Myers' own Grace Cathedral in San Francisco declined the request, however.

Jammed against the main gate of the prison were about 500 protesting sign-carriers. They sang almost continuously, “We Shall Overcome.” Many had been there all night.

In the execution chamber, Mitchell took 12 minutes to die.

“He seemed to be under the influence of drugs and sedation,” said the Rev. Samuel Calhoun, of Sacramento's Faith Temple Church of Deliverance, one of the three witnesses Mitchell invited.

“Mitchell had no sedation at any time,” firmly stated Warren Lawrence Wilson.

The agreement, details of which were not disclosed, also includes cost-of-living pay increases, additional pension and health benefits and an increase in mileage payments to long-haul drivers now receiving between $3.32 and about $5 an hour.

In addition to increased fringe benefits, the Teamsters originally sought a 75-cent hourly pay hike over three years. The employers had offered a 37-cent an hour wage increase.

One employer in Chicago described negotiations there as "so far apart it's hopeless." Negotiators were attempting to get details of the Washington agreement for guidance.

The Chicago area employers have offered to raise pay 5 per cent. Present pay ranges from $3.25 to $5 an hour.

There was little hope that the trucking would be resumed in Chicago until a contract solution is reached. Employers shut out members of 10 Teamsters Union locals when selected firms were struck. Then the 11,000-member Chicago independent Teamsters-Union called its members off their jobs.

Not only the lockout continued in Chicago, but a Teamsters Union and independent truck driver strike as well, tying up virtually the entire Midwest short-haul common carrier fleet.

Many long-distance shipments reportedly were being routed around Chicago as trucks from other areas began rolling again.

Although parts shortages brought some auto assembly lines to a complete halt and reduced production on a number of others, automakers planned to resume full production quickly, perhaps by Monday.

The settlement narrowly averted a costly production halt in the textile mills in the Carolinas that would have idled thousands of workers. It also eased the threat of widespread industrial layoffs in Indiana that were expected to reach 400,000 persons.

Such key defense contractors as General Dynamics Corp. and Bell Helicopter Co. in Fort Worth, Tex., agreed they would have been seriously affected if the lockout had continued only a few more days.

Skinner also told the commission that an additional $30,000 would be needed for cable and labor.

Another recommendation by Skinner called for a widening and strengthening of the runways prior to the installation of the new lights in order to avoid tearing them up in a few years. It is generally agreed by engineers that the runway at municipal airport must be widened and strengthened if larger jets are to service the Jamestown area.

A resolution to the Civil Aeronautics Board opposing any east-west deletion of service by Mohawk Airlines was also passed by the commission. Alessi noted that Mohawk has proposed ending its east-west service and substituting a north-south route between Rochester and Pittsburgh. He said the commission felt that east-west service is much more valuable to the Jamestown area.

Johnson Signs Order Halting Rail Walkout

By JERRY T. BAULCH
WASHINGTON (AP) — The unions involved in the railroad wage dispute set a new nationwide strike deadline of May 3 after President Johnson signed legislation yesterday extending the legal no-strike period until that date.

Johnson also named a three-man special panel to seek a settlement during the 20-day extension. And at the same time he issued a stern notice to both sides to come to an agreement. The President signed the legislation in the living room of the temporary White House at Punta del Este, Uruguay, where he is meeting with Latin-American heads of state.

After the House and Senate had passed the resolution by an overwhelming margin Tuesday — as he requested — Johnson issued a warning of further strike-blocking action by Congress if no agreement is reached.

He followed that up in the ceremony yesterday with a statement which declared:

"The urgency which prompted Congress to act should serve to notify both sides, as they return to the bargaining table, that the American people look to them for selfless and responsible action in the best tradition of industrial democracy."

"This resolution is a call upon their consciences. I am sure their concern for America will not allow the summons to go unheeded."

The new strike deadline for the six shop-craft unions involved was announced in Chicago by President Michael Fox and the executive council of the AFL-CIO Railway Employees Department. Telegrams were sent to the Federal Mediation Board and the union general chairmen of all railroads involved.

An April 13 strike deadline marked the end of a 60-day truce provided for by law. Johnson.

Chautauqua May Study Its Garbage

MAYVILLE, N.Y.—A resolution of the agenda of Chautauqua County Board of Supervisors for its meeting on Friday asks that the Chautauqua County Planning Board make applications for a comprehensive county refuse disposal study.

The resolution submitted by the Flood Control and Sanitation Committee points out that a comprehensive study for the collection, treatment and disposal of refuse within Chautauqua County is needed and that such a study would be beneficial to the entire county.

The proposal before the county board of supervisors comes shortly after the city of Jamestown received no bids for its refuse collection and disposal contract. Jamestown City Clerk Clinton H. Watson reported on Monday that no bids were received, presumably because of the uncertain status of the present city owned disposal site on Fluvanna ave.

The specifications for the new city contract asked that the contractor provide the disposal site as well as collect the refuse. Several other municipalities through Chautauqua County are experiencing similar difficulties in refuse disposal.

The prefired resolution to be considered by the board of supervisors will authorize the county planning board to make application to the New York State Health Department in Albany for a grant to finance the entire cost of the proposed comprehensive study.

Three engineering firms are also listed in the resolution as being acceptable to make the study.

They include the firms of Teetor and Dobbins of Rochester, Sargent, Webster, Crenshaw and Polley of Syracuse and Havens, Emerson of Cleveland, Ohio.

son, in signing the 20-day extension, noted that the Railway Labor Act calls for a 60-day cooling-off period in contrast to 80 days under the Taft-Hartley Act which applies outside the transportation field.

The resolution, he said, in effect simply puts the rail workers in the same situation that would confront industrial workers threatening a major strike.

The panel named by Johnson to help settle the dispute is headed by retired Judge Charles Fahy of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in the District

Wildcat Port Strike Ends after Two Days

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Operations returned to normal yesterday at the Port of Philadelphia as some 1,340 longshoremen, threatened with the loss of jobs, returned to work after a two-day wildcat strike.

"Everything seems normal this morning," said F.H. Muldoon, president of the Philadelphia Marine Trade Association, which represents 70 shipping firms.

The association warned Tuesday that unless the workers returned to work at 8 a.m. yesterday, no more longshoremen would be hired until it was assured that the terms of the contract would be followed.

The walkout, which was not sanctioned by Local 1291 of the of Columbia. The other two members are George Taylor, professor of industry at the University of Pennsylvania, and John Dunlop, professor of economics at Harvard.

The legislation headed off a strike against railroads that handle 95 per cent of the nation's rail freight.

Members of the six unions average about $2.50 an hour, with skilled machinists receiving up to $3.04. The unions are asking a seven per cent pay boost and the railroads are offering five per cent.

International Longshoremen's Association, began over plans for the distribution of an $900,000 royalty fund.

The fund was established in 1960 by the Pennsylvania Sugar and Refining Co. here when it introduced automation. Members of the local voted Monday night to distribute the money to men who belonged to the local in 1960 and 1961.

Others felt that the fund should be distributed on a percentage basis to all union members, including those who joined after 1961. Still others felt that only longshoremen who worked on the sugar piers should get the money.

Council on the Arts

Warren was approached this week by a member of the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts to consider the possibility of combining the talents of several organizations into a Community Council on the Arts--a move to see culture spread to rural districts where children and adults may never have been exposed.

Those fortunate enough to reside in Warren County may take for granted the wealth of talent within its confines. Considering its population, this area is head and shoulders above many in the state.

If civilization is judged by what has been left behind, Warren will have a rich heritage. The Warren Player's Club has in the past and in the present provided and will in the future continue to provide endless hours of wonderful entertainment. Through this organization, both those who participate and those who contemplate, have found a needed outlet.

The Philomel Club, in its 75th year, has drawn from Warren musicians of only the highest caliber. The Warren Civic Orchestra, for 15 years, has expanded the cultural atmosphere while the Warren Concert Association has brought to the community the artistry of others.

... BUT WE'LL BE FIRST--THAT'S MOST IMPORTANT!

The Warren Art League speaks for itself as it continues to encourage the language of this form of artistic self expression.

Through its departments the Woman's Club has enhanced the life of the area in fields of drama, art and music. Warren and county schools have encouraged and received encouragement to "fill the well" for the children.

For several years a Children's Theater successfully "smoked out talent" which could well have lain dormant through a lifetime.

Last year saw the budding of a Summer Theater, which this year is hoping to burst into full bloom.

The community has more than its share of those who teach music--those who play music and those whose voices are raised in song in recitals or in church choirs.

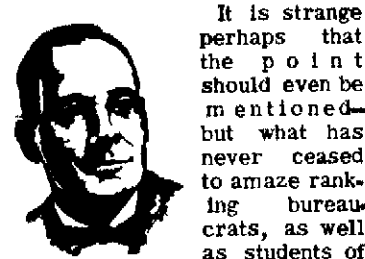

If these many, many talents can combine to work as a Council on the Arts, without the individual groups losing their already vital identities--Warren may be able to add strong emphasis to a cultural explosion being felt throughout the state and country.

But the fact remains--we have never in our history lacked for cultural exposure.

MASON DENISON

Fiscal Pot Is Not Bottomless

By Mason Denison, Editor Pennsylvania News Service
HARRISBURG -- When Governor Shafer unveiled his near-billion dollar budgetary projection the other day for the new fiscal year starting July 1, he underscored a point too few realize: the fiscal pot is not bottomless after all.

Denison

It is strange perhaps that the point should even be mentioned--but what has never ceased to amaze ranking bureaucrats, as well as students of government, is the simple fact that too many of Pennsylvania's citizenry fail to realize that there is indeed a limit as to just what the money tree on Capitol Hill is capable of producing.

Demand is endless, the cries for more never cease, neither individuals nor groups of individuals ever seem satisfied--the treadmill is a continuing affair from beginning to end.

Lobbying groups are concerned only over their own particular interests, which of course is human nature and the purpose of the lobby effort in the first place, but individual demands consistently are made without relationship or rationale with the overall picture of what can or cannot be done--within reason and within the realm of practicality.

The end result is a tremendous screening process, a refining, a watering down (or possible elimination completely) of these demands. The screening goes through two basic processes: (1)--the executive branch, and (2)--the legislative branch.

By the time a demand for funds is squeezed through these two fiscal juicers, oftentimes there is little semblance of the original request.

The irritating part of it is that those whose fund requests are juiced down to a sip never seem able to understand or reconcile themselves as to the reason why. Reactions run the gamut from irk to anger and outrage.

Mr. Shafer's budgetary recommendation unquestionably is a huge affair, it's another record-breaker which includes built-in spending increases decreed by previous legislatures, plus new programs of the Shafer Administration.

Up to this point the budget has progressed through the first half of its acid test--that is, screening by the executive branch.

It's a heavily whittled down fiscal tome as compared with what it looked like initially. Department heads have screened and re-screened, the budget office has sifted and re-sifted, and finally the Governor works in his two cents!

But as we've noted, this is only half the journey. It has to go through the squeeze mill of the legislative branch--which oftentimes is as tough or tougher than the executive branch refinement.

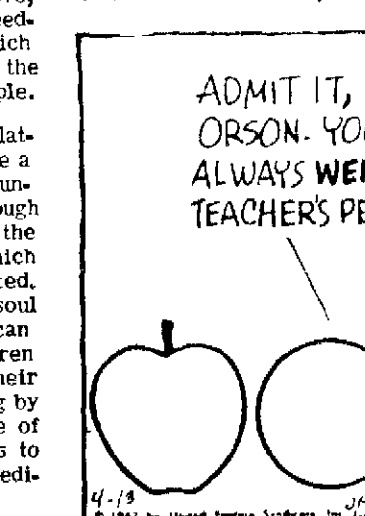

In the Legislature it's due for a close look by both the House and Senate appropriations committees--then finally the full membership of the House and Senate, which can (and oftentimes does) knock all previous squeezing galley-west.

Meanwhile what has happened to the glowing requests for expanded funds turned in by special interest groups earlier in the game?

For one thing they've been reduced considerably (or perhaps even eliminated)--but they're not through fighting. They'll be at it tooth and nail both in the public prints (inevitably pointing up "inadequacies" in their particular field) and in the legislative halls, dogging committee hearings and lawmakers themselves.

Pressures are on this year as rarely before--but ironically these pressures come at a time when Pennsylvania is in one of the tightest spending--tax squeezes in many a moon, which is destined to leave special interests pretty well out in left field!

Most Needy Nations Missing

WASHINGTON -- It's the smallest, poorest countries which have the most to gain from hemispheric cooperation but which are absent from the Summit Conference now meeting in Uruguay.

They knew, of course, that the conference was pre-cooked -- like a TV dinner -- with everything decided by the technicians in advance. They also knew that no important political questions would be discussed.

Bolivia, the poorest nation in South America, is absent because access to the sea is not specifically on the agenda, though it could have been discussed privately at Punta del Este.

Haiti, the poorest country in the Caribbean, which needs economic help from the larger nations of the Western Hemisphere, is absent partly because President Francois Duvalier is nursing a grudge against the USA, partly because he fears revolution will break loose if he leaves the country.

Haiti is the biggest political problem in the Western Hemisphere and could flare up into another Dominican Republic. It illustrates the weakness of the present Pan American machinery for dealing with emergencies and points to one problem which the presidents at Punta del Este must remedy.

In Washington, the State Department's "ready room" is constantly alert for any sign of Haitian revolution. In Haiti, President Duvalier, a graduate of the University of Michigan Medical School and at one time an expert on yaws, sits isolated, bitter against the United States, ruling over a country which could become the Congo of the Caribbean. Suffering from diabetes and a heart condition, Duvalier's formerly robust figure has dwindled to toothpick size.

When he dies or is removed from office, a blood bath is almost certain between the wealthy mulattoes, who once ruled the country, and the poverty-stricken blacks. Meanwhile, the U.S.S.R. Boxer lies at anchor off the coast, ready to repeat in Haiti what caused so much bitterness against the United States when we landed troops in the Dominican Republic.

To head off similar embarrassment, the State Department last fall warned the Organization of the American States that trouble was brewing in Haiti. As a result, the former president of Ecuador, Galo Plaza, was drafted from his farm near Quito to go to Haiti for talks with Duvalier. Plaza is an expert trouble-shooter. He acted on behalf of the United Nations in Lebanon when the Eisenhower administration landed troops in 1958; and also on the beleaguered island of Cyprus when the U.N. intervened to prevent war between Greece and Turkey in 1964.

In Haiti, Galo Plaza persuaded President Duvalier to accept a formula by which the United States would send road-building equipment to Haiti, and in return Haiti would permit the O.A.S.

to send troops -- officially for the purpose of guarding the bulldozers, actually to prevent the expected blood bath between blacks and mulattoes.

"You have been accused of swiping road-building equipment in the past," Plaza half-joked to President Duvalier. "This will be protection for you."

Duvalier agreed, but the proposal was never carried out. It went to the O.A.S., where it ran up against phlegmatic Dr. Jose Mora, the charming, do-nothing secretary general. Dr. Mora held a few conferences with other ambassadors who apparently did not care whether a Haitian blood bath occurred or not. In the end, the carefully worked out plan of Galo Plaza was put on the shelf.

Haiti is the second oldest republic in the Western Hemisphere, having obtained its independence from France in 1804. But it has also seen some of the bloodiest wars in hemispheric history. Thousands of blacks have been murdered by fellow blacks in the past. Nothing but the ominous shadow of the U.S.S.R. Boxer at anchor off the coast can now prevent chaos after Duvalier dies -- unless President Johnson this week can work out an advance commitment from his fellow presidents.

Ex-President Galo Plaza is now operating the biggest Holstein dairy farm in the northern part of South America. He is milking 400 cows and shares ownership in a famous $28,000 North American bull, "Grayview Chris Crown," developed by the Curtis Candy Company. This bull is kept in Illinois, but its semen has been distributed by air to 2,000 cows in Puerto Rico, the Caribbean, and South America at a cost of $350 per insemination.

In Quito last month, Galo Plaza drove out to the Equator with Chief Justice Earl Warren to have his picture taken with the Chief Justice, one foot in the Northern Hemisphere, one foot in the Southern Hemisphere.

Galo is enjoying life where he is in Ecuador, takes a few trips each year to New York where he was born, and sometimes to the West Coast of the United States where he studied at the University of California, with additional studies in animal husbandry at the University of Maryland. He is not looking for trouble, having been the first president of Ecuador to live out his term without being killed or deposed by revolution.

However, a man of his ability should not be wasted on dairy cows, high caliber as they may be, thanks to Grayview Chris Crown. So there has been talk among Latin American diplomats of drafting him to become secretary general of the O.A.S. And until the O.A.S. gets a dynamic executive who will head off trouble before it becomes acute, we will probably continue having crises in Latin America. It will take a man of the stature of Galo Plaza, ex-President Lleras Camargo of Colombia, or ex-President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela, to put the comatose O.A.S. back into effective business.

ART BUCHWALD

Going Out of Business

WASHINGTON -- Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien's radical proposal to do away with the Post Office Department and make it into a non-profit government corporation is getting serious study here.

His reason for making the suggestion is that the post office is a money-losing proposition and he feels it should pay its own way. The trouble with the plan is that if it is adopted it opens up a whole can of beans with the other departments of government who are also losing money, and the time may come when every Cabinet member will demand that his department be made into a corporation, too.

Let us peek in on a Cabinet meeting a few years from today. Gentlemen, the President of the United States. "All right, let's get the meeting under way. We'll hear from the chairman of the board of the Interior."

"I'm happy to announce, Mr. President, that the Interior Corporation is in the black. We had to sell the Grand Canyon to do it, but we still have Yellowstone National Park, and by raising the rents on the Indian reservations we should have a banner year."

"Very good. What about the Labor Corporation?"

"Mr. President, the Labor Corporation is in very good shape. By merging with the Teamsters Union we've been able to do away with our deficit and even invest money in negotiable bonds."

"That's wonderful, Willard. Are we still charging a substantial fee for invoking the Taft-Hartley Act?"

"Yes, sir, it's been one of our best money-makers."

"Fine. Now let's hear from the chairman of the Justice Corporation."

"Mr. President, I'm happy to say that Justice is holding its own. We lost money on our crime cases, but we showed a profit selling bugging equipment to private companies. We used the surplus to buy a race track outside of Washington and it's doing very well."

"As long as you don't keep it open on Sundays, I guess there's nothing wrong with it. Does the Transportation chairman have anything to report?"

"As you know, Mr. President, we merged with General Motors

SYLVIA PORTER

The Health 'Gap'

"Never before in our history has the potential threat to the health of the American worker been greater than it is today."

This is a time when American corporations are making unprecedented efforts to protect employees against on-the-job health hazards. Industry's bill for this is now running at more than $300 million a year and tremendous strides have been made in providing in-plant medical and first aid facilities, protective clothing and devices for workers dealing with dangerous equipment or substances. This is an era in which life insurance companies are recognizing the strides being made by insuring--at reasonable rates--workers in occupations once considered virtually uninsurable.

Yet, this is the grim statement made by Dr. Murray Brown, director of the U.S. Public Health Service's Division of Occupational Health Program, in a recent interview. Behind his judgment is the fact that today's rapid-fire technological advances are creating a whole new crop of health hazards and a stack of deadly serious statistics.

To illustrate: + More than 14,500 U.S. workers died and another 2,200,000 were temporarily or permanently disabled in 1966 as a result of on-the-job accidents, according to a recent National Safety Council report. The strictly financial cost of these accidents in terms of lost production topped $6 billion against $4.6 billion in 1961.

+ This year the average American worker will lose at least five days of work because of illness or accidents--adding up to a total estimated economic loss of $58 billion. Of this loss, a major percentage will be due to occupational causes.

+ Despite the indisputable progress against on-the-job health hazards, the Public Health Service estimates that on-the-job health services of any type are available to only one in five workers--and in many cases these are only for emergencies.

Over and beyond these serious statistics is the fundamental challenge of the new occupational health hazards emerging in our new world. Here, for example, are some of the questions being raised:

What are the effects of new work environments--such as nuclear submarines, submersible oceanographic research vessels, laboratory "clean rooms" on physical and mental health?

What is the effect on human health of continuous exposure to infrared and ultraviolet light and beams of the whole new family of lasers and masers?

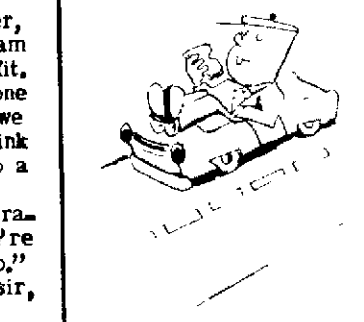

What is the effect on the human ear--and on the body as a whole--of exposure to sonic booms and ultrasonic sound waves beyond the range of the human ear?

Are exotic new chemicals and space age fuels toxic to humans working with them--and are powerful new pesticides harmful to agricultural workers?

The Public Health Service this fiscal year is spending a record $6.6 million for occupational health--half of it in the form of research grants--and the President has asked a boost in this budget to $8.5 million. But a significant national assault on the problems of on-the-job accidents and illnesses would come to $50 million a year, says a recent top-level report to the U.S. surgeon general.

If the results of this assault could reduce our rate of sick absence from work by only 20 percent, it would add more than $11 billion to our production. But as the surgeon general's study group points out, far more important than any financial benefits to the nation, would be the "elimination of any factor which makes the worker pay with his health or his life for the privilege of having a job."

Platform Bryan Didn't Run On

As we rapidly approach the Spring Primary Election, it is time to reflect on the many things which are, or will be, the issues involved as you select your County Officials, the most important of which are the Commissioners. It is my fervent hope that you, the voters, will this time vote both on the basis of personal qualifications such as education, training, experience and maturity AND on the issues. I believe it to be a sad commentary, that the man who received the most votes four years ago, allegedly made the statement, that he was the only one of the group, who had not made any statement to the electorate. There are a great many basic principles and problems upon which the candidates should be willing to take stands. Such statements, you the electorate should seek, or more correctly demand, so you may make an knowledgeable choice. I should like to briefly discuss a few of these with you, as I see them.

1. The Aim of any one seeking the nomination should be Primarily One of Service to the people of Warren County; to give attention to individual as well as the aggregate problems; to administer the business of Warren County in the most economical manner possible and to return the vast bulk of taxes collected, to you the taxpayer, in the form of governmental services. Remember the County Business Is Big Business and not to be entrusted to the unqualified.

2. The candidate should accept the philosophy of Henry Clay "That Government Is A Trust, And Its Officers Are Trustees, And Both The Trust And The Trustee Are Created For The Benefit Of The People". Lincoln phrased it, as a government "Of The People, By The People, And For The People". A true democracy exists only on the premise of individual effort and private enterprise. Unfortunately the whole trend of both the Federal Government and our County Government in the past 4 years has been toward a "Welfare State". The power to govern is gradually being usurped from the people by the government.

3. Do not be misled, by the statements of some, that they will or have made the office a "full time job". This is not true of any of the incumbents, nor will it be, strictly speaking, true of the aspirants. One cannot help but wonder, if we might not have been better off, during the past four years, if at least two of the incumbents had spent Less Time creating problems and Less Time developing more ways to spend our tax dollars, whether they be local, state, or federal.

4. To any program let us apply the test of need rather than desirability or what has of recent years become the determining criteria and that is primarily the fact That If Funds Are Available We Must Use Them. This false premise has produced wastage of untold hundreds of thousands of dollars, as witness the establishment of an office to wage war on Poverty. An enemy which has proved more elusive in Warren County, with its 1.5 percent unemployment rate, than the Viet Cong in the Jungles of the Far East. Always keep foremost in your thinking that You Are The Source Of All Tax Funds Whoever Is The Distributor; that with Federal Monies come Federal Controls; and that with this control begins the vicious larceny of the rights of you, the governed.

5. Let Us Take The Rouse Home Out Of The Political Arena! The minority Commissioner has repeatedly, ad nauseum, pointed out to us that this is a Private Non-Profit Corporation. It naturally follows then, that we should not permit our Public Officials to spend such a large percentage of their time, attending to the day to day, minute details of its administration, a task for which they are rather ill suited. Rather they should be about their duties of managing the County Business, for which we are paying them. The Rouse Home should be administered by a Board of Directors of interested business and professional people, much in the same manner as the Warren General Hospital. This group could consist of approximately nine qualified individuals, appointed for 3 year terms by the Court. They in turn could hire A Trained And Qualified Administrator. The role of the Commissioners would then be to help to establish general policy.

6. Above all do not use age as a pure criterion of selection. Advancing years do not of themselves mean wisdom, maturity, and useful experience. However, neither does exuberant youth mean the type of vital, energetic participation we so sorely need.

7. Further development of our industrial complex and even holding what we now have depends on easily accessible, fast, efficient and dependable transportation at a reasonable cost. In most instances, today, this means air transportation. I believe we should participate to the fullest extent possible in the development of the Bradford-McKean Airport. This is our most practical approach. However, we should never abandon the maintenance of a suitable landing strip for light and executive type aircraft as close in to Warren as feasible.

I firmly believe the seven principles, as outlined above, constitute a reasonable, needful, applicable platform which if instituted would produce the most good for the most people.

This would have been my platform. But, I chose not to be a candidate for the office of County Commissioner, even though I will continue to be active in the Community Activities to which my talents are best suited. After much agonizing soul searching, I have decided I can best serve the people of Warren County, by looking to their physical needs, by devoting by far the largest percentage of my knowledge and energies to the Full Time Practice of Medicine.

Power Lies With Congress

As President Johnson meets the Latin-American presidents at Punta del Este he must make do with the inconvenient and sometimes embarrassing fact that under the American Constitution he can speak for the United States, but he cannot fully commit it.

He is in a position to propose — in this case that our aid to Latin America be increased up to approximately $1.5 billion during the next five years. But under the Constitution, the power to dispose of this money, rests with the Congress, and the President is not able to make a final financial pledge at Punta del Este.

"The verdict of history, in short," says Prof. Edwin S. Corwin, "is that the power to determine the substantive content of American foreign policy is a DIVIDED power, with the lion's share falling usually, though by no means always, to the President."

There have been several ways of dealing with the problem of divided power which aim to avoid the situation where the President negotiates with a foreign government only to have his own Senate reject what he has agreed to abroad.

One method has been for the President to use his pre-eminent power of leadership to build up public opinion in favor of the proposed commitment which he has negotiated. This was the method employed successfully in the case of the recent consular treaty which was ratified only after it had received great popular support.

Another method of dealing with divided power in international affairs is to appoint as members of the American negotiating commission influential leaders of the opposite party in the Senate. The failure to do that, the choice of a retired Republican senator, may have been the critical mistake in Woodrow Wilson's handling of the treaty of Versailles.

Another method is for the President to consult with the leaders of the Senate before he negotiates. This has often been done, and often, but not always, it has worked successfully.

Another method of dealing with divided power is to try to persuade Congress to commit itself to the President's proposals before the negotiations begin abroad. This was the method President Johnson attempted to use, only to be rebuffed by the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate. Obviously it was a mistake to ask for a commitment by the Senate unless he was sure that he would get it.

Divided power in U.S. foreign policy is a perennial problem for which, by the very nature of the Constitution, there can be no one and no certain solution. It is inconvenient, and occasionally it can be embarrassing.

One of its least desirable effects is to cause those who formulate policy in the State Department and in the White House to stifle projects before they are proposed for fear that they will be rejected by the Senate. This is known as the pre-natal effect. But the American system has certain compensating advantages. It sets up a block against secret treaties. It compels the President to educate public opinion by explaining himself.

Nor has it proved to be an unworkable system, as John Hay, for instance, thought it was. The system works best when there is a friendly and confident understanding between the President and the Congress. Like so many features of the American constitutional system, an underlying consensus is necessary to operate it.

Because of the absence of that consensus the President failed to get from the Senate a commitment in advance to support him for the next five years. There is grit in the constitutional machinery. The grit is there because of the grave abuse by the President of powers which were voted to him under the Tonkin Gulf resolution.

I wish the incident had not happened and that the President would not have to appear at Punta del Este after being rebuffed by the Senate. How damaging are the effects likely to be?

We can be certain, I think, that the great projects which are to be discussed will not be affected decisively by the fact that the President cannot tell the Latin-American governments they can count absolutely on another $300 million a year for the next five years!

In fact, as compared with the magnitude and complexity of the problems of poverty in this hemisphere, the money involved in the whole affair is chicken feed.

MADRID — Spain moved yesterday to tighten the economic blockade around Gibraltar; she banned aircraft flights from most of the airspace surrounding the tiny British colony. Only a narrow East-West air corridor to the Gibraltar airfield over the open Mediterranean remains. This may bar airline operation to the colony. While Spanish officials refused to define the new order as a blockade, it is clearly being applied by Madrid to persuade Britain to agree to Spain's sovereignty over Gibraltar.

Thus, Spain announced the aerial "prohibited zone" six days before the resumption in London of stalemated talks with Britain over the colony's future.

British Tanker Bombed

(C) N.Y. Times News Service
SAIGON — An 18,000-ton British tanker partially sank after her stern was torn open early yesterday morning by an explosive charge apparently planted by the Viet Cong.

The ship, the Amara, was unloading 15,000 tons of helicopter fuel when the explosion occurred in the port of Nhatrang, about 200 miles northeast of Saigon. None of her crew was injured.

A United States military spokesman said a 6-by-4 foot hole was ripped in the vessel eight feet below her water line by an "external explosion" thought to be either a plastic charge or a mine. The Viet Cong have used both devices against allied shipping.

However, a spokesman for the Shell Oil Company, to whom the vessel was chartered, said: "We don't have enough evidence at the moment to say that it was the Viet Cong."

He said the vessel had taken on its cargo in Singapore and had been in Nhatrang since Monday. Most of the fuel had been discharged when the blast occurred.

"A salvage crew is on the scene and they say they will be able to salvage it," the military spokesman said. "It was almost empty and that was evidently what saved it."

The stern of the 559-foot-long vessel was reported resting on the bottom of the harbor in 60 feet of water last evening, but the bow remained above surface.

The enemy has made several attacks on allied shipping in recent months, but the Amara was the first to be hit at Nhatrang.

Bradford Council Discusses Model Cities Program

BRADFORD — City Council will meet in special session tomorrow afternoon to decide on an application for participation in the federal model cities program.

The 4 p.m. meeting grew out of a discussion Tuesday with state officials.

The deadline for the model cities applications is May 1. The program is administered by the state and coordinated through local urban renewal agencies. Approval by city council is required for the application.

Spain Blockades Air Zones Around British Gibraltar

The previous major restrictive measure by Spain was the closing of the land border with Gibraltar to all vehicular traffic and merchandise last October. Since then, Gibraltar had been accessible only by sea and air, except for pedestrians.

If B.E.A., the British European Airline that flies to Gibraltar from London and Madrid — decides that operations are unsafe under yesterday's restrictions, then a blow will have been dealt to the economy of the two — and — a half square mile British enclave. Since the Spanish ban on overland vehicular traffic barred tourists from southern Spain, Gibraltar has emphasized direct British air tourism to the colony and to Tangier in Africa, 30 miles across the strait.

Last year's $140 foreign currency limit on British tourists also became a boon to Gibraltar and until now the economy remained reasonably prosperous.

Yesterday's ban — to become effective in mid-May — could do away with this source of income for Gibraltar as well as complicate movement in and out of the hemmed-in territory. The order establishing "prohibited zones" over a 100-square-mile land area around Gibraltar and over Spanish territorial and inland waters was published in yesterday's morning official gazette. It was adopted last Friday's cabinet meeting with Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The IV Corps

CAN THO, VIETNAM — Much too little attention has been paid to a process of very great present and future significance in this war, in brief, what used to be described as a mere "civil war" is actually being taken over all but entirely by North Vietnam.

These battalions were first formed in the North from regroupers — southerners who went north in 1954. After coming south, they got their recruits in their home provinces until there were no more recruits available. Then northerners took them over this year.

In II Corps the last big unit of Southern origin, the Second VC Regiment, has just been filled up to three-quarters of its total strength with northern troops. In addition, the North Vietnamese main force units, which freely incorporated local recruits last year, are now being kept alive only by injections of northerners, or they are withering on the vine. And some northerners are just beginning to show up in provincial battalions in II Corps.

III Corps still boasts two divisions with southern designations, the Ninth and Fifth VC Divisions. Yet the need to use northern replacements, as usual resulting from deficient southern recruitment, has transformed both these formerly southern divisions into outfits with heavy northern predominance. All other big units are northern except in the lower fringes of III Corps, where the delta begins. Here the provincial battalions are still entirely southern.

Here in IV Corps, finally, the enemy has no unit larger than a battalion. But his seven main force battalions and his 14 provincial battalions are still exclusively manned with local recruits. And this is also the only remaining part of South Vietnam where you do not find large numbers of major enemy outfits that are unfit for combat because of crippling losses that have never been replaced.

This state of affairs, so utterly different from the condition of the three more northerly corps areas, nonetheless masks very significant progress. Originally, it must be understood, this rich delta region, with its population of 6 million, was the prime VC recruiting ground. Twice over, in the spring of 1965 and the spring of 1966, every VC outfit in the delta from guerrilla band up to main force battalion was required to yield up half of its men and cadres — and those the best — and to rebuild thereafter. This was to provide manpower for the VC units to the north of the delta.

But all that is over now. IV Corps may perhaps continue to contribute a dozen men here and 20 men there to the provincial battalions in the lower fringe of III Corps. But serious manpower exports have altogether ceased, simply because the VC of IV Corps are now hard put to replace their local losses. Furthermore, although the VC commanders hereabout are still keeping their outfits at near-full strength by halting manpower exports, there are numerous signs of worse trouble still to come.

In January last year the VC lost just over 370 weapons, while capturing over 550 weapons from South Vietnamese government troops. But this February the ratio was 640 weapons lost by the VC to 150 captured. Again in January of last year the VC suffered 286 defections, whereas this February the total was 1,469.

Guerillas who surrender instead of fighting, big units that break instead of holding their ground — these are other novel signs of declining enemy morale and fighting power.

Yet it must be noted that more remains to be done in this delta region than in any of the other corps areas.

Nor is this surprising. The United States has recently established a vast base in Dinh Tuong Province, at the northern end of this corps area. But the two U.S. battalions occupying this base have been almost aggressively defensive in their operations, at any rate to date; and defense of the base has even become an added burden for the South Vietnamese forces in Dinh Tuong.

Besides U.S. naval and air forces, the whole burden of the fighting in IV Corps is still being carried by the South Vietnamese army and the regional and popular forces. The three government divisions here are somewhat outnumbered by the New York City Police, and they and the RF and PF confront nearly 11,000 VC regular troops in main force and provincial battalions, plus another 60,000 or 70,000 guerrillas of various categories.

OBSERVATIONS . . . by Bob Walsh

OUR HOMES FOR CHILDREN

Recent remarks credited to our county commissioners in the course of discussions relative to the care of children have not been accompanied by extensive explanation of the problems faced. Consequently, the public has been left wondering who is right. Is the Hoffman Home in bad condition? Could we send all our county wards to the Smith Home in Sheffield? Does that home operate more economically than the Hoffman Home?

Some of this wondering developed when a portion of the press reported that Commissioner Mead during his criticism of the Hoffman Home suggested that all of the children should be sent to the Sheffield home because this cost only $2.50 a day to care for a child while the Hoffman Home was costing $6.50.

The fact is that it costs less than $6 a day for care in the Hoffman Home. To be exact, about $5.16, plus maintenance, which might increase it to $5.50, or something less than $6.

Caring for children in the Ruth M. Smith Home in Sheffield costs more than $2.50 a day. That might be enough to feed a child but it wouldn't keep the home in operation.

The $2.50 represents what the county pays per child who may be admitted to the Smith Home at the request of its welfare service. The rest of the cost is covered by donations and other income.

SMITH HOME

However, the Smith Home could not accommodate the county's Hoffman Home children. The Smith Home has a capacity of 26 and it is filled at the moment.

The Smith Home was founded in 1921 when Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Smith of Warren gave their former home in Sheffield to the Methodist Erie Conference to be used as a children's home. More property soon was added and the home was named after Mr. and Mrs. Smith's daughter, Ruth Margaret Smith.

The Smith Home is financed through income from trusts and investments which have been left it, and through efforts of the WSCS of the Methodist churches throughout this area. Some contributions come as unqualified gifts. Often the money is donated for specific purposes, such as clothing. Some children are financed by relatives. The home also receives surplus food.

Though the home is Methodist owned and operated, it accepts children of all denominations, with the requirement that they attend Sunday school. They come from counties as far away as Jefferson.

HOFFMAN HOME

The Hoffman Home was made possible through money from the Hoffman estate and today has investments totaling about $368,000. These produce around $19,000 a year. Rent and board may provide another $3,000.

The state pays the county a varying percentage, ranging from 19 to 28 per cent of a $3 per diem cost per child. The county makes up any differences, but for the past two years the deficits have been met from the accumulations of previous balances. The expenses in 1966 added up to $30,697.92.

The census of the home has ranged from a low of six to a high of 24. At present there are 24 children living there, which is the rated capacity.

The reason for the variation is that the management of the home has been adjusted to professional thinking. At one time the emphasis was on the placement of children in foster homes. Now the thinking has swung back to housing under a single roof. The commissioners have acted on the advice of professional sociologists, and in fact must do so if state aid is to be obtained.

The commissioners have agreed to provide care which will be acceptable to the Department of Public Welfare. They also are planning building improvements that will meet the requirements of the Department of Labor and Industry. The cost of these building improvements will be about $60,000. This will not involve basic physical changes, except for a new corridor between the two buildings, a new fire escape, new stairs, alteration of a locker room into a quarantine facility, and kitchen renovations. All floors will be newly surfaced, the rooms painted, and new lighting installed.

Warren county should have a home well suited to its purpose, and if it can play a part in the retarded children's program, 90 per cent of such costs would be covered by federal funds. If the court were to decide that the Cobham fund of about $250,000 should be used in Warren county, it is quite possible that an excellent home could be financed at no cost to the taxpayer.

But the proposal that all county children be sent to the Ruth M. Smith Home is not practical or realistic. There is not room for them, and if room were provided the construction cost might raise that $2.50 figure to a level that is far more than is paid by the county today for the Hoffman Home, which for two years has been nothing.

Johnson Struggles to Give Summit Talks Success Look

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (AP) — President Johnson and his aides, helped by a few allies, are struggling to give the inter-American summit conference a look of success.

If a show of inter-American unity was an objective of this highly publicized and tightly secure summit, it is falling short of the market.

The summit has had the effect of underlining divisions in an atmosphere here of every man for himself, every region for itself. This can have an abrasive effect on any notions North Americans might have had that Latin America could be dealt with as a unit.

The fact of the matter is that the United States cannot deliver to Latin-American leaders all they want, and the Latin-American leaders cannot or will not deliver to the United States what it wants.

Clashes of interests among the Latin-American countries divide them according to levels of internal development and according to regions.

There is a wry irony about what is going on here. Some of the men gathered represent countries whence the outcry has been loudest against "imperialism" and "colonialism."

Yet some of these same men want the United States to give their nations' exports a preferential treatment, on the model of the once-colonial powers of Europe and their trade relations with former colonies. They want even more U.S. loans, with the use of the dollars unrestricted, so they do not have to spend them in the United States, regardless of Washington's balance-of-payments problems.

There has been much preparation for this meeting on the foreign minister level, but evidently not nearly enough. Major issues have been tossed to the chiefs of state themselves to hammer out.

The presidents inherit the thorniest of the problems: not only Latin-American demands with regard to trade and restricted dollars, but concerning the question of political wording.

VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTION

Soviet Union to Aid UN

BY SAM POPE BREWER

(c) N.Y. Times News Service UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The Soviet Union announced yesterday that it was preparing to make a long-awaited voluntary contribution to help cover a United Nations deficit that caused a bitter dispute in 1964 and almost crippled the world organization.

However, no amount and no date was mentioned.

Nikolai T. Fedorenko, the Soviet chief representative, in making the statement to a working group of the special committee on peacekeeping operations, clashed with Seymour M. Finger of the United States.

The Soviet representative asserted that the U.S. had been unwilling even to indicate its intention of making such a contribution and had imposed "unacceptable and inconsistent conditions."

Finger replied that "we have not only paid all of our assessments for all United Nations peacekeeping operations, without exception, but we have also made very large voluntary contributions toward those in the past."

In addition, he said: "We are, on the side of building peace, contributing something like 25 times as much as the Soviet Union to the United Nations development program and to the children's fund."

This was the first echo in some time of the fight over article 19 of the U.N. charter, which paralyzed the 19th general assembly in 1964.

In spite of Finger's remark on contributions, Fedorenko repeated a charge that the U.S. had not made "a simple and clear answer" on whether it intended to make a voluntary contribution.

The working group of the committee of peacekeeping operations is looking for a solution to long-term problems of financing such operations.

The $75 million deficit referred to by Finger grew out of refusal by the Soviet Union to pay assessments for costs of peacekeeping operations in the Middle East and Congo, and by France to pay for those in the Congo.

Article 19 of the U.N. charter provides that when a member's arrears amount to two-years' total assessments the member loses the right to vote in the general assembly.

State Approves Use of Building

KANE—Kane's school district has state permission to use the first floor of a school building which was closed in March as possibly unsafe.

The school building needs additional support before the second floor of the building can be used as a state report considered Monday by the school board declared. Two steel beams will be put into place. Two fire doors also are required.

The state report will be further discussed tomorrow night with engineers. Students have been attending other schools in the borough and whether they will return depends upon tomorrow's meeting.

Eric Man Indicted

An Erie youth has been indicted by a grand jury in Pittsburgh on charges of failing to report for induction into the armed forces.

He is Patrick J. Quinn, 20, who was among four named in true bills handed down by the grand jury yesterday. Others are Norman Jenkins, 20, West Mifflin; John P. Markovich, 21, of Pittsburgh; and Jack J. Miller, 21, of Pittsburgh.

Steele-ing The Sports Scene

Answers Your Problems

DEAR LARRY STEELE: I have a problem. I recently completed six years of school, at a cost of $15,000, training to be a snowplow operator and yesterday was advised by my doctor to move to Arizona because of poor health. Although never very lucky, I won an automobile in a raffle last week—an Edsel—but have never passed my driving test. Hoping to someday try my hand at politics, I just subscribed to a 30 lesson course called "How to Make Your Mark on the Political Scene," co-authored by Tom Dodd and Adam Clayton Powell. After three years of submitting sealed bids, I was just awarded concession and parking rights for all the Cassius Clay fights in the next two years. To top it off, I'm a New York Mets fan. What do you suggest—WORRIED SICK.

DEAR SICK: Why don't you try another doctor, marry the first girl you meet who can drive, run for office in Harlem, burn your draft card and forget about baseball?

Why not? If Ann Landers can advise America on the proper gun laws, why can't we, in this column, answer letters from the lovelorn, solve the problems of teenagers, drug addicts and other persons who fail to get through a day without a major crisis?

After all, we're about as well-qualified to be an amateur psychiatrist and sociologist as that dame is to consider herself an expert on this country's firearm problems.

We usually leave the subjects related to hunting and fishing in the capable hands of Don Neal, our outdoor editor, but became so infuriated at America's substitute for the psychiatrist's couch, a faculty advisor and mother all rolled into one that we couldn't wait for his expert appraisal.

He probably doesn't perturb her daily column of improbable problems and even more improbable answers, anyway, since he's a sensible man and finds his pleasures in more wholesome outlets.

In case we've lost you, Miss Landers offered her opinions on the current attempt at new gun legislation in her Monday and Tuesday columns and even managed a swipe at the National Rifle Association in the process.

While we don't argue her right to state opinions on any subject, regardless if it's in our field, Don Neal's or her own, we do dispute her right to influence other uninformed persons by a haphazard, one-sided and incomplete reporting of the facts.

She even went so far as to print a letter comprised of her opinions on the problem and urged everyone to cut it out, sign it and send it to their legislators!

It would be useless to refute her arguments here since this column is not syndicated nationally and we can not hope to reach the millions that read her daily remarks, including the poor souls who accept her advice as gospel truth. There are more knowledgeable people than either of us wrestling with the problem now and we can only hope that they can find the solution.

If the 800,000 members of the NRA are all wrong, as she hints, then this country is in real trouble, for most of the 800,000 are gun owners and if they are not familiar with the firearm problem, who is? Ann Landers?

Her column is undoubtedly a popular feature of this newspaper and thousands more. It is often amusing reading and, therefore, perhaps should be carried on the entertainment page.

Unfortunately, there are many people who have followed her advice. It is commendable if she has helped anyone, but who will accept the blame for the irreparable harm she certainly has caused by offering a solution to a problem that can be described in a few short sentences?

The ability to influence people by the written word, if those words bring disaster into anyone's life, is as dangerous as the gun in the hand of the criminal.

Griffith-Benvenuti Odds Up, Favor Champ 13-5

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The odds favoring middleweight champion Emilio Griffith over Nino Benvenuti of Italy have gone up from 8-5 to 13-5 for their 15-round title fight at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

"We don't know much about Benvenuti," said a Broadway boxer who's a real boxing expert. "We hear he's a good fighter and he looks pretty good in camp."

"But we know a lot about Griffith. He wins his title fights. The champ is good and he's strong. The main thing is that he wins."

Griffith, 9, has a 10-2 record in welterweight title fights and he's 3-0 for middleweight title fights. This will be his 16th world championship fight in six years. Griffith's overall record is 52-7, including 18 knockouts. He's been stopped once, by Rubin Carter in the first round Dec. 20, 1963.

Benvenuti, 28, has a 71-1 record, including 30 knockouts. The tall, smooth Italian won the world junior middleweight title from countryman Sandro Mazzinghi in 15 rounds on Dec. 17, 1965, and lost it to South Korean Ki Kim-Soo on a controversial 15-round decision at Seoul, Ki's home grounds, June 25, 1966.

Nino, a standup fighter with a classic boxing style, finished his hard training Wednesday at Haines Falls, N.Y., in the Catskill Mountains about 120 miles from New York. Griffith, training about 20 miles away, expects to wind up his boxing drills in a couple of days.

BASKETBALL, BUT NOT BOXING

Pennsylvania Governor Raymond Shafer (left) gave Philadelphia 76ers' coach Alex Hannum morale support before Tuesday night's playoff game between the 76ers and the Boston Celtics, but this state's chief executive delivered the fatal blow to the Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title fight yesterday. Shafer used his influence to have the fight banned at Pittsburgh's Civic Arena, causing Clay's manager to cancel the bout. The fight had been thrown out of Nevada a day earlier. (See story at right)

Gene Shue Retained As Bullets' Mentor

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Bullets rehired Gene Shue yesterday as coach of the National Basketball Association team for next season.

Salary terms for the one-year contract were not announced, but Shue is believed to have signed for approximately $25,000.

The former NBA star took over the Bullets on Dec. 5 last season after Baltimore got off to a 4-21 start under Mike Farmer and Buddy Jeannette. Jeannette, the team's general manager, took over as interim coach until Shue was hired.

Under Shue, a 34-year-old graduate of the University of Maryland, Baltimore won 16 and lost 40. The Bullets finished last in the Eastern Division with a 20-61 record.

Shue said he met with the Bullets' owner late Tuesday and agreed to terms. "We met only about three minutes," Shue said. "They asked me how much I wanted and then asked me to leave the room. When I returned, they said the salary I requested was all right with them."

Despite the poor showing by the Bullets last season, Shue said he was optimistic about next year.

"Having Ray Scott from the beginning of the season will be a big difference," he said. "And with diligent drafting of college players next month, we should play an important role in the Eastern Division."

Shue played 10 years in the NBA, averaging 14.4 points for 700 games. He was on the All-Star first team in 1959-60 when he averaged 22.8 points a game.

Shue will be first Baltimore coach to finish one season and come back for the next. Three predecessors—Bob Leonard, Jeannette and Paul Seymour—either quit or were fired at the end of a season.

76ers Slate Opening of NBA Finals

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia 76ers announced yesterday tentative playoff dates for the National Basketball Association's championship playoff, a best four-of-seven game series.

The 76ers, who Tuesday night won the Eastern Division playoff final over the Boston Celtics, will open here tomorrow, if the San Francisco Warriors defeat the St. Louis Hawks in the Western Division final in six games.

San Francisco leads the Hawks, 3-2, in the best-of-seven series with the sixth game last night in St. Louis.

The 76ers would play the second game against the Warriors here Sunday, go to San Francisco for the third and fourth games April 18 and 20. The fifth game, if necessary would be in Philadelphia April 23, with a sixth in San Francisco April 24, and the seventh in Philadelphia April 26.

Should San Francisco and St. Louis go seven games, and the Warriors win, the first game of the title set would be in Philadelphia Sunday. The team would play games three and four in San Francisco April 20 and 21 with a fifth game at Philadelphia April 23, the sixth in San Francisco April 24, and the seventh at Philadelphia April 26.

Should St. Louis win, the only game set is the opener in Philadelphia Sunday.

The 76ers get the odd game at home by virtue of the best regular season record in either division.

GOVERNOR SHAFER LAYS DOWN LAW

Banned in Pennsylvania, Clay-Patterson Bout Off

CHICAGO (AP)—The proposed heavyweight title bout between champion Cassius Clay and Floyd Patterson will not take place at any site, Clay's manager announced yesterday.

Herbert Muhammad, Clay's Black Muslim adviser, told the Associated Press that plans for the bout were dropped in the wake of refusals by the states of Nevada and Pennsylvania to accept the bout scheduled for April 25.

Clay's scheduled induction into the Army is set for April 28. Muhammad said earlier yesterday he telephoned Angelo Dundee, Clay's trainer to break up camp at Las Vegas where the fight originally was scheduled before the Nevada State Athletic Commission rejected the bout Tuesday.

Pittsburgh, named as an alternate site, was eliminated by the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission yesterday on order of Gov. Raymond P. Shafer.

Asked if the fight might be held elsewhere, Muhammad asserted: "No, not with Patterson."

Would Clay defend against any other challenger? "We have no such plans at this time," said Muhammad. Muhammad blamed the cancellations in the two states on "racial or religious prejudice."

Just Momma's Boy After All

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—While heavyweight champion Cassius Clay was boarding a plane to leave here Tuesday, a newsman asked if he definitely will go into the Army, April 28 as his draft board has ordered.

"Yes," he replied. "It would break my mother's heart if I didn't."

"If he (Clay) was a white Christian champion, I don't think the fight would have been stopped."

"If the governor of Pennsylvania knew the champion was going to be beaten by Patterson, he would have let the fight go on."

"They are trying to stop it because the champion is a Muslim and a Negro. This has given the whole country a black eye."

The Pennsylvania commission actually okayed the fight five weeks ago when Pittsburgh was first mentioned as a possible site.

Shafer said his first word of the fight being switched to Pittsburgh came from newsmen. He said he phoned Laxalt and talked to him for five minutes about why he wanted it banned in Nevada. Shafer quoted Laxalt as saying he felt the first Clay-Patterson bout, which Clay won by a 12th technical knockout in Las Vegas in 1965, was not a good match and he saw no reason for a repeat performance.

Top Pros Play Golf Champions' Tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Twenty-six professional golfers, headed by defending titleholder Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Masters champion Gay Brewer, put in final practice rounds yesterday on the eve of the start of the $100,000 Tournament of Champions.

Most of the field in this 15th annual desert event were getting their first look at the tournament course, the 6,625-yard, par 36-35—71 Stardust Country Club.

Since it began in 1953, the tournament was held at the neighboring Desert Inn Country Club. There has been a change in ownership and the event was shifted to the Stardust.

The tournament since 1962 has been strictly a Palmer-Nicklaus production. Palmer, after several unhappy attempts, finally won in 1962. Nicklaus made it back-to-back in 1963-64 and Palmer duplicated the feat in 1965-66.

It took a playoff with Brewer for Palmer to win it down last year, and now Brewer comes in fresh from his big victory in the Masters at Augusta, Ga.

The field, limited to pros who won one or more PGA-sanctioned tournaments in the preceding year, has three former winners aboard—Palmer, Nicklaus and Art Wall Jr., the 1954 champion.

Others who made it were Bill Casper, Doug Sanders, Julius Boros, Tom Nisport, Bruce Devlin, Bert Yancey, Roberto de Vicenzo, Harold Henning, Frank Beard, Phil Rodgers, Bobby Nichols, Al Geiberger, Mason Rudolph, Don January, R. H. Sikes, Romero Blancas, Don Massengale, Bob Goalby, Ted Malena, Jacky Cupit, George Archer and Dan Sikes.

Missing for the first time is Gene Littler, who put together a string of three straight triumphs starting in 1955.

The Stardust course is shorter than the previous layout, and may be a little easier. But it features a rolling topography in contrast to the Desert Inn's flat fairways. There are 25 traps and six lakes.

Frank Wildman, the chairman of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission, told reporters, "The governor is the boss. I still think it is a good fight, however, and I will try to convince him to change his mind. Patterson is the No. 3 challenger and that is a good fight in anybody's book."

John J. Vaughn, another commission member, was more forceful in his comment. "It just isn't right," he said. "We've got the best two fighters in the world. How can we let one object to that? We told them (the promoters) that we would accept the fight—the whole commission has accepted it."

A spokesman for Litman said, "The governor is probably misinformed and ill-advised. If the governor had objections, he should have let it be known some time ago before we took all the time, and trouble to arrange this."

Litman said officials of Main Bout, Inc., which handles the closed-circuit television for the bout, were scheduled to come to Pittsburgh today to sign contracts.

He said agreements had been made for Clay to get 50 per cent of the gate at the Arena, which seats 13,000 for boxing, and Patterson 20 per cent.

For Patterson, a bout here would have been his second in a row in Pittsburgh. On March 30, shortly after hearing that Clay was willing for a re-match Patterson knocked out Bill McMurray in the first round of a scheduled ten-rounder at the Arena.

Rec Loop Sets Deadline for Team Entrance

The Recreation Softball League has set Tuesday, April 18 as the final day for entering a team in the loop for the 1967 season.

The "player pool" is still open and anyone desiring to play softball and not already affiliated with a team is urged to call President Nick Tomassoni at 723-4457. The loop adopted the pool several seasons ago to insure that everyone has a chance to play softball here.

Tomassoni announced yesterday that the league will not co-sponsor any fund drives this season, citing the heavy work load carried by the loop in the past while others have taken the credit for the projects.

The pre-season Rec League exhibition schedule will be announced next week. The official opening day has been slated for May 14.

Red Chinese Violinist Defects, Blasts Guard

By TOM POSTER
NEW YORK (AP) — An international Chinese violinist emerged dramatically from refugee here yesterday, and said he fled his Communist homeland beneath the fearful spur of Red Guard terrorism.

"I spent 103 days in a dreadful hideout for devils and demons and underwent what is too painful to describe," said the defector, Ma Shun-sung, who has been granted asylum with his family in this country.

As Ma told a chilling story of persecution, degradation and overpowering fear, bright sunlight bathed Upper Manhattan outside a 3½-room apartment where he talked to newsmen. A short, slight man of 54, Ma told of concentration camps where he underwent "thought reform," of indignities inflicted upon his mind and body at the hands of revolutionary teachers and Red Guard students.

"I was treated very badly and abused," said Ma in a tired voice, halting occasionally to sip water. "I feared for my life and worse than that."

"Right now I am physically unable to perform because my health has been ruined by several months of hard labor."

Ma talked to newsmen at the home of his brother, where he has been living secretly with his family. The brother, Ma Shih-hon, who came to the United States in 1948, helped translate, since the defector's English was poor.

Beside Ma Shun-sung were his wife, Wang Mu-li, herself a pianist; their daughter, Cella, 23; and a son, Julon, 20. Only the wife was dressed in Chinese style.

Ma was president of Peking's Central Conservatory of Music and vice chairman of the Union of Chinese Musicians. Son of a onetime director of finance in China, he studied the violin in France as a youth. He had traveled widely outside of China before and after the Communist revolution.

First word of Ma's defection came from Washington, where State Department press officer Karl Barthel announced: "Ma has escaped from Communist China and requested the U.S. government for asylum. It has been granted to him, his wife and their two children."

An outstanding concert violinist and composer, Ma said he originally welcomed the Communist revolution in China, and saw it as a means to build a prosperous and democratic nation.

But with the so-called Cultural Revolution and the ascendancy of the Red Guards, bitter disillusionment set in.

Ma declared: "It is not a cultural revolution, it is a political revolution. They burn all the books and all prominent persons in the cultural field are being persecuted. I am very fortunate. Many prominent writers, who could not escape, have committed suicide."

Vietnamese Leaders May Move Civilians Southward

By BOB GASSAWAY
SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese government leaders are considering a plan to remove civilians from much of the northernmost province, Quang Tri, because of the growing menace of Communist forces in the area.

The idea — still only in the talking stage — cropped up a week ago after Red troops had stormed into Quang Tri City, the provincial capital 20 miles south of the Demilitarized Zone, and held it for several hours. The attack was so serious that Premier Nguyen Cao Ky flew to Quang Tri for a personal inspection.

Vietnamese sources said the plan under consideration called for removal of most of the 273,000 residents of the sensitive sector just below the DMZ.

The civilians would be given the option of moving into North Vietnam, which borders Quang Tri Province at the 17th parallel — or being resettled under government supervision farther south.

The area then would be considered a full war zone, and anyone caught there by the allies would be considered an enemy and subject to treatment as such.

The Vietnamese sources acknowledged, however, that even if Saigon's government okayed the idea, American help would be needed for transporting the people.

No known approach has been made to U.S. officials. Some field commanders reportedly favor the idea.

At the other end of the country, 600 South Vietnamese airborne troops staged one of their rare parachute assaults and teamed up with 1,400 other soldiers moving in by ground and by helicopter in an effort to find and destroy a Communist regiment believed operating below the Mekong delta city of Can Tho.

There was no major contact immediately. Two Viet Cong were killed, and two were captured. The government forces reported "very light casualties" from sniper fire.

State Nurses Plan Two Strikes Against Hospitals

BROOKVILLE, Pa. (AP) — The Pennsylvania Nurses Association said yesterday nurses will strike two Western Pennsylvania hospitals April 22 in the hospitals which refused to recognize the association as bargaining agent for the nurses.

The strike threat was made against Brookville Hospital in this Jefferson County community and Clarion Community Osteopathic Hospital.

R. Edward Erickson, administrator of Brookville Hospital, said the hospital's board of trustees will meet Thursday night to consider the association's demand.

Recently, nurses went on strike at the Clarion hospital in what was described by the hospital as a dispute over personnel policy. The nurses eventually returned to work.

Soviet Men Advised To Observe Womankind

By JOHN WEYLAND
MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet women were advised yesterday to pay more attention to their looks and charm. Men were told to look upon them as something more than a comrade worker.

"We need an art which educates young boys to admire the miracle of beauty in women and young girls to aspire to imitate the examples of such beauty," said the Literary Gazette.

The article urged not only that women become more feminine but that they be idealized. Two months ago Literary Gazette assailed the practice in the Soviet Union of using many women for heavy manual labor.

Expensive Cleanup

LONDON (AP) — The 171 bombs and rockets unleashed on the grounded American tanker Torrey Canyon last month, to quench the flow of oil from its torn tanks, cost Britain $560,000, Minister of Defense Equipment Roy Mason told Parliament yesterday.

They are particularly numerous in construction.

The paper said then that young girls should not throw away their femininity just for the higher pay in construction.

Professor Threatens Law Suit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A University of Pennsylvania professor told an anti Vietnam war group the institution's germ warfare research program could lead to law suits by members of the faculty.

Dr. Robert J. Rutman said Tuesday night at a "teach-in" attended by some 200 students that such a suit could be based on damage to reputation.

Rutman, an associate professor of chemistry, referred to the chemical biological warfare research contract known as "Project Splicerack" between Penn and the U.S. Air Force. The contract and an Army-sponsored project known as "Project Summit" have generated controversy at Penn for more than a year. The university recently announced it would not renew the contract.

Dr. Albert S. Mildvan, assistant professor of biochemistry at Penn, said he considered the chemical warfare research program as "public health in reverse" and a grave affront to an old medical school.

Dr. Sidney Peck, of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, and a member of the Inter-University Committee on Foreign Policy executive committee, urged students to attend a mass mobilization for Peace in New York Saturday. He called the meeting "an effort to overcome the feeling of powerlessness that many people feel about the war."

Pittsburgh Policeman Granted New Hearing

PITTSBURGH (AP) — State Superior Court granted new trials yesterday to a Pittsburgh policeman sentenced in an accidental slaying and to another man convicted of blackmail.

The court overturned the conviction of Robert L. Heard, a policeman who received a 9 to 18-month workhouse term on an involuntary manslaughter

Youngsville Area Home Hit by Fire

Flames which sprung from a defective chimney shortly before noon yesterday caused an estimated $3,500 damage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Clifton on Coovers Crossing rd., two and one-half miles west of Youngsville.

Youngsville Volunteer Fire Department responded with three trucks and 15 men and battled the blaze for almost two hours.

The fire at one point broke through the roof and side of the two-story farmhouse and caused heavy damage to the attic. Fire Chief Lee Sittler reported.

The Clifton couple were home when the blaze broke out. At the sight of flames, Mrs. Clifton aroused her husband from sleep and they then turned in the alarm.

Damage was said to be about $2,500 to the house and $1,000 to its contents.

charge. According to the prosecution, Heard, while off duty, fired a couple of warning shots during a fight in a restaurant on Pittsburgh's North Side April 12, 1964. One of the shots killed Charles Mushinsky, a bystander.

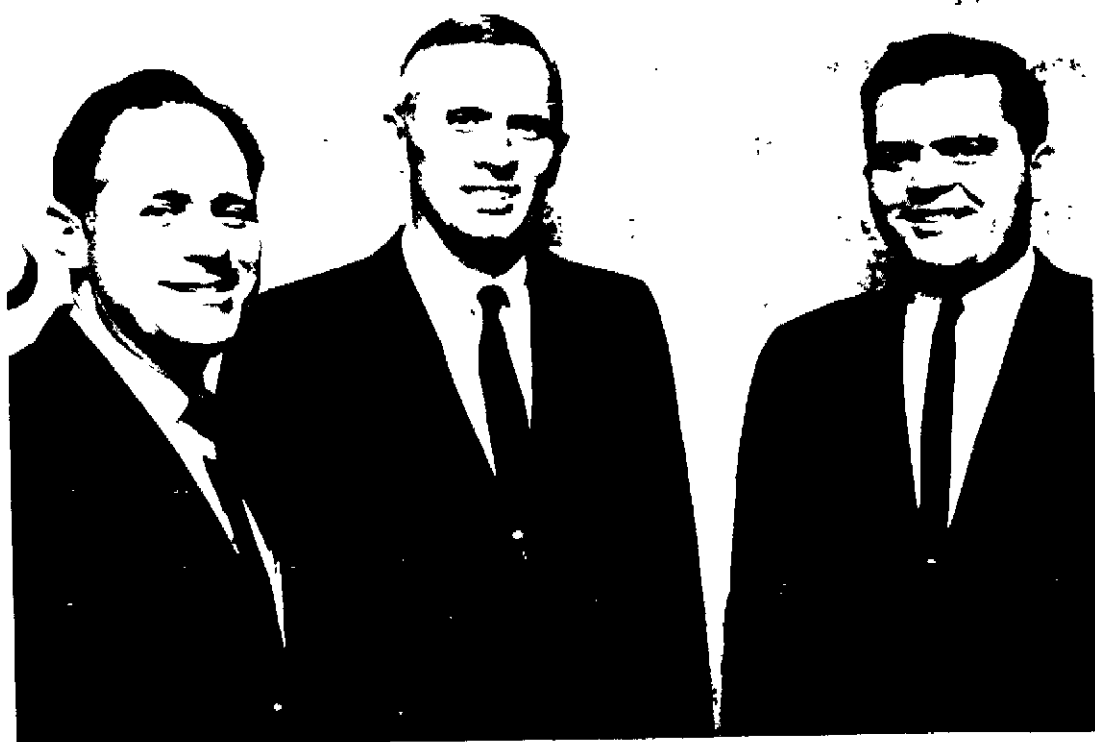

The state contended that Heard violated police regulations by carrying a .25 caliber semi-automatic, the death weapon, rather than his .38 caliber service revolver.

The majority of the court found, however, that "the charge that this could form the basis of a guilty verdict of involuntary manslaughter was improper."

Judges J. Colvin Wright and Harry M. Montgomery dissented. Wright said in a separate opinion that Heard "was fortunate that he was not convicted of an offense more serious..." and added that, "His conduct was inexcusable."

In another case, the court reversed Allegheny County Criminal Court and granted a new trial to Emido D. Flex, convicted of blackmail in an alleged scheme to collect a $12,000 Las Vegas gambling debt from Paul Keyes and Ralph Kriyanek, a pair of Pittsburgh auto salesmen.

The court said the only testimony about alleged threats made by Flex was given by police officers and "Keyes and Kriyanek denied that any threats were made to them..."

Safety Director Replaces Police Held in Probe

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh Safety Director David W. Craig yesterday named temporary replacements for four police inspectors suspended in a rackets payoff probe.

Craig named Lts. Frank Burckner, Joseph Gudenburr and James Devitt as acting inspectors and put Inspector Horace McDaniel in charge of an additional district.

Inspectors William J. Walsh,

Vincent W. Dixon and Ignatius Borkowski were suspended pending action on charges of conspiracy to attempt to extort. Their hearing is set for Saturday.

Inspector Paul A. Duffy was suspended after District Attorney Robert W. Duggan implicated him in the probe, but said he could not be prosecuted because statute of limitations had expired.

Duffy is to receive a police trial board hearing.

Five other policemen and former policemen were charged in the probe, including former Assistant Police Superintendent Lawrence J. Maloney.

Bill Would Require County To Have a 'Public Defender'

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)
HARRISBURG—Warren County would be required to establish the office of "public defender" under terms of legislation introduced in the Senate.

At the present time county commissioners of sixth class counties such as Warren have the right to appropriate funds to non-profit public defender associations or societies, county bar associations and individual attorneys—but there is no requirement that this be done nor is there provision for any such specific office.

Under terms of the new legislation however sixth class counties such as Warren County would be required to establish the office of public defender to represent without charge each indigent person under arrest or charged with an indictable offense.

The bill directs that the public defender be elected by the county in the same manner the district attorney is elected, and that he be provided with adequate staff "but in no case shall the number of authorized employees exceed the number authorized for the office of the district attorney."

According to the bill, now in the Senate Local Government Committee, the Warren County Public Defender would be required to: (1)—counsel and defend the indigent person at every stage of court proceedings, and (2)—"prosecute any appeals or other remedies before or after conviction that he considers to be in the interest of justice."

Trooper Hamilton Graduated

A Warren man was one in a class of 100 new state troopers who were graduated yesterday by the State Police Academy in Hershey.

State Police Commissioner Frank McKetta, announcing the assignments of the new troopers, said the officers will be added to troop rosters throughout the state effective today.

Trooper John C. Hamilton of North Warren, a former borough police officer, has been assigned to Troop A in Greensburg.

Troop E, Erie, gets 10 of the new troopers. Assigned are Walter H. Anderson Jr., Washington County; Robert M. Ando, Allegheny County; Conrad J. Bentlejewski, Herbert A. Bruggeman, John C. Connolly, Kenneth J. Dworek, Harold C. Eberhardt, also from Allegheny County; Carl J. Buckshaw, Indiana County; Myron Fernstrom Jr., Elk County; Terence P. Haskins, Mercer County and James F. McCabe, Washington County.

There will be 116 candidates making up the next class of state police cadets who begin their training today. Included in the group is Ralph E. Shaw, Jr., of 113 Kinzua rd. Warren.

Wetter April; First Eleven Days, Anyhow

In the first 11 days of the month, those proverbial April showers have brought more rainfall than any similar period in the past six years.

An unofficial tally of "wetter" statistics yesterday showed this month's rainfall has totaled 1.79 inches. The dampest day was last Thursday, when .81 inches fell.

Last year's rainfall in the same period was .75 inches. The same period in 1965 showed .48 inches, while 1964 tallied .68; 1963 brought 1.24, and 1962 showed 1.52.

This year's rainfall was compiled in four of the 11 days. Surpassing that are 1963 and 1962, with five days of rainfall each.

The five-day forecast is for scattered showers near the end of the week, averaging less than .25 inches. The highs will be in the 60s and the lows in the 40s.

LOOKING FOR A PLACE TO HAPPEN

It looks like Warren, where the Pennsylvania Railroad freight derailed last week. Or perhaps Kane, where the same thing happened two days later. Or maybe Oil City, where 20 cars were scattered along the tracks over the past weekend. It isn't any of those places, though. This is a new one near Johnstown, where two Pennsy freight trains derailed simultaneously to block four tracks. It's a regular epidemic.

BEHIND HEART'S CONTENT

Carnegie ROTC Maneuvers Here

Allegheny National Forest Supervisor Lee Keeley announces a ROTC unit from Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, will be in the forest Saturday, for an exercise in infantry platoon tactics.

The group will include 50 college students, plus military and advisory personnel. The one-day exercise will be conducted in an area between Pa. State Route 337 and Forest Service Road 119, west of Heart's Content, East of Hickory Creek, comprising about 5,000 acres in Limestone and Watson townships.

Forest Service men describe it a particularly wild area without access roads, providing little or no contact with the general public. The supervisor's office has already notified Game Commission and Fish Commission authorities of the exercise.

The two infantry platoons will be strictly limited to blank ammunition and .30 caliber weapons.

Use of the Allegheny National Forest for the exercise was requested by Colonel William S. Crocker, professor of military science and tactics at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Forest Supervisor Lee Keeley said the Forest Service co-operates with all military commissions when their activities do not conflict with National Forest administration to provide men in the armed services with needed training.

Titusville Loses Half of Water, Treasurer Says

TITUSVILLE—About half of Titusville's water supply went down the drain without being paid for, according to the city treasurer's office.

Treasurer Norman Canada told city council Tuesday that 400 million gallons of the city's water supply did not go through meters. The pumping station showed 939 million gallons pumped, while meters recorded only 401 million.

Canada said Oil City had nearly the same problem, although Meadville has accounted for 85 per cent of its water.

Council authorized the metering of all city buildings to help correct the situation and ordered that meters be installed on all city residences "regardless of the circumstances involved." There are 50 unmetered customers which are charged an "extra rate."

CAUGHT BY KANE OWNER

Kane Man Arrested In Burglary Attempt

A 23-year-old Kane area man was apprehended at his residence at 5:30 a.m. yesterday after being found in a Kane department store Tuesday night by the owner.

Arrested and charged with burglary before Peace Justice William Bunce, was Neil Cook Jr., 23, RD 2, Kane. City police said he waived a preliminary hearing and was released on $1,500 bail pending his appearance in McKean County court.

Lawrence Stitler of Broad-bent-Stitler Dept. store, a three-story establishment in the center of Kane, said he closed the store at 5 p.m., but returned to the building about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday to pick up a package for a customer.

Upon entering the store, Stit-ler, stated, he threw the switch that turns on the center lights on the first floor and spotted a man in the men and boys' section. According to the store owner, the intruder fled to a fitting room on the second floor where he grabbed a chair and attempted to hit Stitler. The latter said he picked up a rung from a banister and a brief battle ensued without either man being hit.

Stitler then went back to the first floor and got a pistol—returned to the second floor and spotted the man again. Stit-ler said he fired four shots, none of which apparently reached their target.

Cook apparently left the store through a fire door which opens into the Kane Moose Lodge, went through the Moose building and out the front door onto Main st., leaving behind a woman's brassiere.

Reports in other area newspapers that Cook was wounded by shots fired were denied by police. Entry was gained into the department store through a rear window.

City and state police combined forces in the investigation.

North Warrenites Get Kiwanis Club

North Warren will have a Kiwanis Club in the near future, it was announced yesterday.

The nucleus of the club held its third meeting Tuesday evening. Joe Kestler, chairman of the group, said 30 members have been signed up, which meets the requirements for a Kiwanis Club charter. The charter is being applied for.

The group meets at 6 p.m. on Tuesdays in the Community Hall in North Warren. The Women's Auxiliary of the North Warren Volunteer Fire Department is handling the cooking chores.

"We want every eligible man in North Warren who would like to better the community," Kestler said. He added that there is no limit on membership.

The club is the second to be sponsored by the Warren Kiwanis Club; Youngsville's Club was formed under Warren's guidance. In addition, the Warren club has sponsored Key Clubs at Warren and Eisenhower high schools.

Yesterdays meeting of Warren Kiwanians saw Ken Hale, YMCA youth director, speak on the Y camping program.

Hale said more Y camps will be filled this summer than ever before. The main contribution to youth made by the camps is "character growth." His talk was illustrated by slides.

Charles Telchert of Greenwhich, Conn., a pilot for Geyon Construction Co., was a guest at the meeting. John Kloos was introduced as a new member. Bob Frycklund presided and Mark J. Goumas was program chairman.

Town Crier

... By Les Rickey

I have good news for you people who are saving Kennedy half-dollars. They're not worth 50 cents—that is, not unless you spend them. Then they're worth whatever 50 cents will buy these days, and that's not much.

The harassed people at the U.S. Mint, when they're not turning out the pennies I talked about the other day, are trying to keep up with the drain on the supply of half-dollars. To hear the reporters in the nation's capital tell it, the Treasury boys are taking 15-minute lunch hours and missing their coffee breaks over the mysterious disappearance of our national coinage.

Now you know that isn't true. It isn't even true of private enterprise, where people can get fired, much less in the government.

But it is true that the public is saving those half-dollars in the hope that they'll be "worth something someday." I find that stimulating; not because they are frugal or far-sighted, but it shows that Americans don't really live in terror in this nuclear age.

I look at it this way: It probably would take about a thousand years for the coins to become valuable, the way the Mint is turning them out. Now if people still save them, in spite of those odds, they must think the world will last that long.

I tend to agree with them, and I'd save 50-cent pieces to show that I do. The trouble is, I can't find any.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I felt sorry for the young woman whose house was a mess and company dropped in unexpectedly just as she was trying to get a new baby ready for bed. Her husband mumbled something to the guests about how awful the place looked and ended up saying, "My wife hasn't cleaned the house since the baby came."

I agree that the husband should not have said this, but it seems to me too much emphasis is placed on the looks of the house these days and not enough is said about warm-hearted hospitality.

I, for one, feel greatly flattered when unexpected company drops in. I couldn't care less about the hour or the looks of the house. I love people and I figure they are real friends if they feel they can come by without a formal invitation. Do you agree with me, Ann?—OPEN DOOR, OPEN HEART

DEAR OPEN OPEN: No, I do not. But I'll get back to you later. For now here is a letter from a woman who DOES agree with you.

Dear Ann Landers: I was upset with your reply to the husband who apologized for the looks of their apartment when unexpected guests dropped in. You said the GUESTS should apologize, since they were the ones who barged in.

Our home is open to anyone and everyone who wishes to enter. I make no pretense of being the world's greatest housekeeper. I happen to like people better than I like cleaning house.

Several years ago we had a sign printed. I placed this sign in our entrance way. It reads: "Although you will find the house a mess, please come in and enjoy yourself. The place doesn't always look like this. Some days it's worse."—EDITH C.

Dear Edith: Thanks for letting us know how it is at your house. And now I will respond to both you and the writer of the first letter.

If you believe an open door means an open heart, you must also believe a closed door means a closed heart. This I feel is unjust. More often than not a closed door simply means, "I am busy."

Since you shared your sign with me, I would like to share one with you. A writer who lives in Michigan told me about it several years ago. It was nailed to the door of his home and read: "If you are uninvited and unexpected you are also unwelcome. Please go away and let me do my work."

I agree with the wit who said, "The most difficult thing about leisure time is to keep people from using yours."

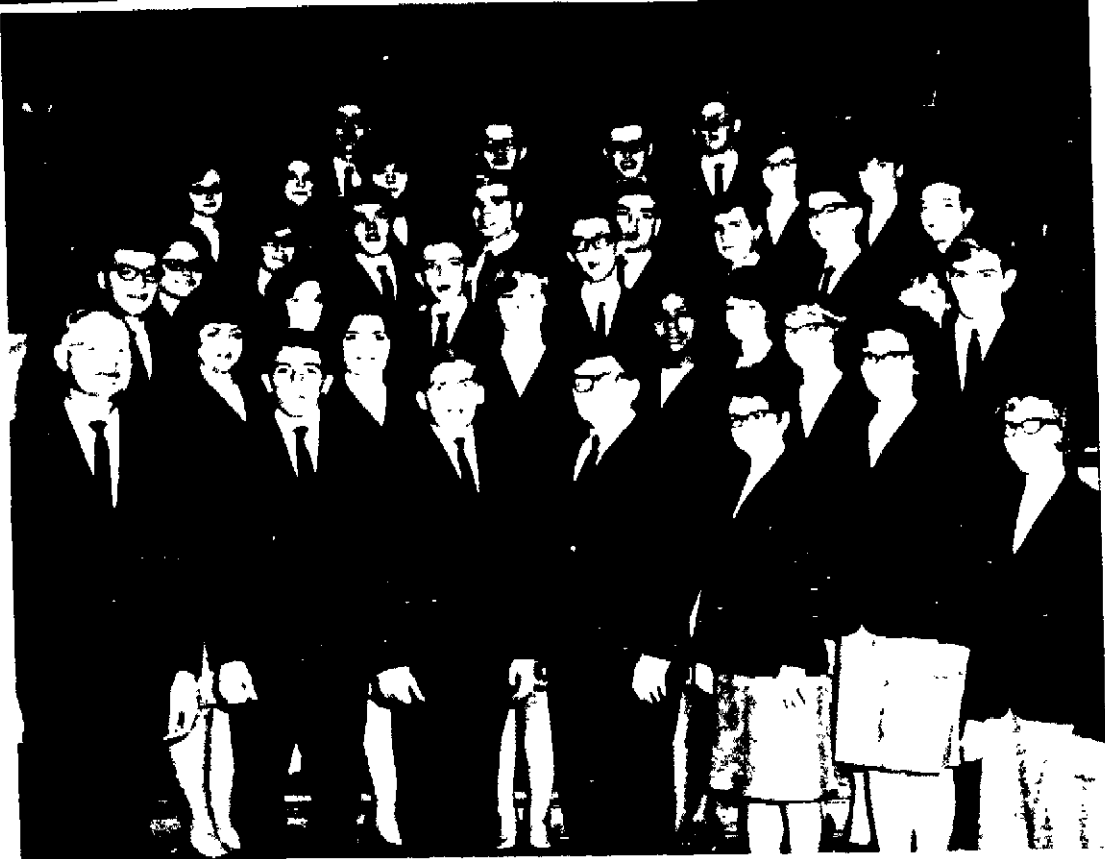

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Remember the letter from the girl whose Navy boy friend got himself transferred to another part of the world when he learned she was pregnant? She advised all girls whose steady wanted to play house to ask them to sign a paper saying they had slept together on such and such a night. This, she said, would do wonders to diminish (if not kill) the sex drive.

When our daughter turned 16 her father gave her this advice: "If a boy asks you to go the limit to prove your love, tell him he'll have to speak to your father because your father is responsible for you as long as you live under his roof." Our daughter followed his instructions and said it produced the most shocked expressions she had ever seen.—MRS. J.

DEAR MRS.: I'm not surprised. If there's anything a guy doesn't want to be reminded of at a time like that it's a girl's father.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You—For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Corry Museum Receives 150 Year Old Wedding Dress

A wedding gown, one hundred and fifty years old (1817) and in a well preserved condition, has been given to the Corry Museum. Of a rich dark brown color in lustrous, satiny cotton and velvet materials, the gown is being modeled in the picture at the right, by Mrs. Bertha McMichael, society editor of the Corry Evening Journal and the co-chairman, with Stewart A. Long, of publications for the Corry Area Historical Society.

According to the Corry Evening Journal, the gown was worn by a member of the Postal weight family in 1817 and was discovered in the Auxiliary Thrift Shop of the John F. Kennedy Memorial Hospital at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Donated by Mrs. Angie Cramer, a member of the auxiliary, the beautifully fashioned gown had been found in a house rented by a distant relative. The name "Postalweight" was the only clue to its origin.

Thrift Shop chairman Mrs. J. Evan Anderson contacted auxiliary president Mrs. H. B. Bearrow—and the search was on for the proper way to preserve the gown.

The corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frank Willoughby, finally contacted the Corry Chamber of Commerce, when it was learned that Corry was a long-time home of the Postalweights.

Stewart Long, chamber manager, immediately contacted A. C. Postlewait Sr. (years have altered the name's spelling) who was a former Corry banker and city treasurer.

Postlewait replied to Long's inquiry that the gown was not his mother's since she was married in 1888 and he knows of the disposition of her gown. However, his father was one of 17 children, 14 of whom reached adulthood, and that the gown more logically had belonged to his grandmother.

Salvation Army Members Travel To Pittsburgh Rally

Sixteen ladies of the Salvation Army Home League journeyed to Pittsburgh for a Home League Rally at the Pittsburgh Temple Corps and the Penn-Sheraton Hotel recently. Accompanying them were Salvation Army Captain Albert P. Carter, and members of the Corps, Maurice Baxter and Herbert Riquier.

They attended a luncheon at the Penn-Sheraton at which approximately six hundred women were present in recognition of the "League Of Mercy" (a group that visits hospitals and the sick); and the "Silver Star Mothers" (those who have given sons or daughters to become Salvation Army officers). Those honored were presented awards for their untiring efforts, as members of the League; and, the mothers were given pins in honor of their sons and daughters.

The principal speaker of the day was Mrs. Commissioner Samuel Hepburn, the national president of the women's organizations, and also a Silver Star Mother. Mrs. Hepburn spoke on "The Changing Years", "Let There Be Light", "Corridors", and, "Our Magna Charta". Her talks were given at intervals throughout the day.

Hints From Heloise

Lemon Extract Bleaches

DEAR HELOISE:

Pure lemon extract will remove the ink-stamped prices on products. Use it straight as it comes from the bottle. I learned this when I saw my grocer remove ink that is used to stamp prices on products. There are several members of our family who work in offices and this is the only way we have ever found to remove ink that we thought was permanent.

Mrs. Paul Temple

Well, I could hardly wait to get to the kitchen to try this. I didn't have any lemon extract, so I used pure orange extract. All I did was pour a drop of it on a purple ink mark! After about five seconds, I wiped it with a paper napkin and it came off slick as a whistle.

And how can we thank Mrs. Temple enough?

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Why not plant a few extra flower bulbs in cans or flower pots when you do your flower planting?

You can enjoy these at home inside the house, or when the plant blooms you would be ready with a lovely gift for an ill friend or loved one. It would mean more because you grew it yourself.

I planted tulips and hyacinths for this very purpose, and wrapped the pot with foil and ribbon just like the florists.

Mrs. Delbert Futrell

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a suggestion for bird lovers:

At nesting time, the lint from clothes dryers can be placed outside and within minutes it vanishes.

The birds use the lint to secure and line their nest.

Mrs. Roy Hassen

DEAR HELOISE:

My young son finds it much easier to trim the grass along the sidewalk while seated on his skateboard!

This seems like a very good idea for adults, too. It's not hard to stay balanced on it.

Mrs. Anderson

DEAR HELOISE:

If your guests don't eat all that beautiful, molded gelatin salad or dessert, or if it has collapsed into an unappetizing "looking mess" . . . never mind.

Just slide it into a stew pan and set it over very low heat until it barely begins to melt.

Leave big chunks unmelted as they will merge with the part which has already melted. Pour it back into another mold and refrigerate.

It will all congeal again and be ready to serve at your next meal.

Harriett Rupert

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:

I want to pass on a tried and true recipe for treasured and happy memories:

Go on family jaunts regularly; but as often as you can, jaunt with each child individually.

Warmth, confidence and love are stimulated by this privacy and companionship and it's something that can never be taken away.

How I cherish those memories.

Grandmother

DEAR HELOISE:

With the beginning of warmer weather I start planning summer wardrobes for my children.

For my small girls I have this idea which is easy and economical.

I buy lightweight curtain valances in assorted colors and prints. The decoration is already there and they are a perfect length. The scalloped ones are especially attractive.

I cut the valance in half and put skirt elastic through where the rod usually goes. Then I sew up one seam and put a snap or button on the back.

And guess what I have? One valance makes two adorable skirts for a small girl, and using them saves me time and money.

Mrs. R. J. Wicks

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

Have you ever put an olive in iced tea and sugar in the cream pitcher, poured cream in the sugar bowl or opened the refrigerator door and found that missing iron (which you thought was lost) on the refrigerator shelf?

Smile—many other women have done the same thing and they aren't locked up yet.

Life is full of surprises, isn't it?

Legion Auxiliary Begins Evening With Tureen

The American Legion Auxiliary of Chief Cornplanter Unit No. 135 held a meeting at the American Legion Home on Pennsylvania ave. W. Preceding the meeting a tureen dinner was enjoyed. The Inter-County Council meeting is to be held at the Sugar Grove American Legion on Saturday, April 29.

The following delegates were appointed to attend: Mrs. Kitty Foy, Estelle Mock, Ellen Valentin, Edith Ahlquist, Mabel Blisson, Gerda Carlson, Margaret Day, Emma Kiernan, Iona Morrison, Myrtle Cobb, Hazel Norris.

Also, Ellen Carr, Hazel Koebly, Margaret Chester, Medna Cannon, Ella Mauck, Pearl Graham, Helena Fox, Lola Walter and Edna Stone.

Mrs. Helena Fox and Mrs. Kitty Foy headed the committee for the tureen dinner.

DEAR HELOISE:

In reading your uses for old plastic drapes, I have another one . . .

I make liners from them for my wicker laundry basket. If you use the top part, just draw a string or cord through the heading of the drape, fold it over the outside and tie it around the basket. Sure nifty. "Thrifty"

Opening lead: Five of ♠
 When the above hand was dealt in a recent tournament, nearly every North-South pair reached a contract of four hearts. While every declarer made his contract, only one South succeeded in scoring an extra trick. By so doing, he obtained a top score on the deal.

West opened the five of spades and East put up the ace. Seeing no attractive shift, he continued with the deuce, his fourth best, and West covered declarer's ten with the jack, forcing the dummy to ruff. A heart was led and East's king fell to the ace. South ruffed out the queen of spades as East followed suit with the eight.

The contract was now assured, and South looked around for a way to develop an extra trick, which in tournament bridge, may spell the difference between an excellent or merely an average result on the deal.

The appearance of the trump king on the first heart lead and the fall of the spots in spades, suggested that East had started with one heart and four spades. It appeared, therefore, that he had considerable length in both diamonds and clubs, and since the burden of protecting both suits might fall on his shoulders, South decided to apply pressure in that direction.

Since he had lost only one trick so far, he could afford to concede one more, and he did so at once by leading a small club from the North hand. His object was to force East to make an extra discard later in the play, while the vice was being steadily tightened.

East put up the jack of clubs to hold the trick, and returned a diamond which was taken in dummy with the king. South now proceeded to draw West's trumps, and as he did so, East found himself caught in a pincer movement. His first discard was the nine of spades and his second was the six of diamonds; however, on the last round of hearts, he was at the end of his rope. If he gave up a club, it would establish North's entire suit, so he discarded another diamond. The ace of diamonds now cleared that suit, dropping both the queen and jack, and South's seven of diamonds was established for his 11th trick.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 1967.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Your chart indicates advantages, but in all matters, investigate carefully. Guard all assets—including health and energies.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—You have a wide field in which to succeed now, but it will be smart to study situations, possible gains before you begin new projects. Invention, sports, travel favored.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Your planetary configuration again encourages your abilities and activities. Be keen about all that could advance your cause, considering all persons concerned. Concentrate on "musts."

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Deal with the soundly saleable. Don't worry over petty matters but bypass overly-ambitious projects. Exploit the advantages of your wit and magnetism; curb pessimistic thoughts.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Many fields of endeavor, work and pastimes are favored now. Be enthusiastic about all the opportunities available. Naturally, your approach and disposition will count.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Concentrate on the best in everything—in work, play, in people. With the right approach you can increase your popularity.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Do not wait for results to evolve from any endeavor that could stand better attention, study or others will attain while you still wait. Safeguard your possessions.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—Put the full force of your knowledge, experience and intuitive powers behind your decisions. This will not only prevent mistakes, but will help you achieve well-deserved recognition.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—If expanding operations, proceed cautiously. Consider all facets, trends. You are usually at your best when going forward, but at times you must stand and wait. Get a sure footing; know your limitations.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Saturn in excellent position. Work, business, domestic interests greatly favored; should bring great benefits.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—It suits your inclinations and capability to have room for action, new projects, the means to improve unsatisfactory conditions. Today provides this: Take the hint; there's so much you can do.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Concentrate on the worthwhile, shun the less desirable. Do not think you are alone in problems, situations, obstacles. Emphasize your dignity and individuality.

YOU BORN TODAY can succeed best on your own merits yet, despite your inclinations, must take preferred aid occasionally. You are the center of home life—peacefully or explosively. Innately generous, you despise under-handedness. You are forceful, bright, humorous; can be haughty, unpredictable; make friends easily, will stand by them. Be sparing with authoritative words lest you give the impression you are trying to impress. Birthdate of: Thomas Jefferson, 3rd President, U.S.A.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

A DARING OPERATION

The real beginning of modern abdominal surgery began in 1809 when Dr. Ephraim McDowell of Danville, Ky., removed a large ovarian cyst from Mrs. Jane Todd Crawford. This backwoods community was not a major medical center nor did McDowell rank with the great specialists of Europe. The frontier area was better suited for crude surgery. But he was a pioneer in surgery and his patients were pioneers like himself.

Jane Crawford was thought to be pregnant but when she failed to deliver, her physician called in McDowell on consultation. Her "supposed" pregnancy was a large ovarian tumor and he told her precisely what the situation was. He added that the only possible solution was an operation that never had been done.

Since there was no other way of relieving the pain, she accepted. His only stipulation was that it be done in Danville, 60 miles away. It was rumored that if his patient died, he would be held for murder. But doctor and patient were willing to take the risk.

Jane made the 4-day trip on horseback with the great tumor propped on the horn of her side-saddle. The operation was performed on Christmas. She recited psalms during the 25 minute ordeal because there was no anesthesia. A 22½ pound cyst was removed. Mrs. Crawford left for home in less than a month. Her 25 minutes of agony gave her 32 more years of life. She died at the age of 79.

Seven years later McDowell published his experiences in an American medical journal. Ironically, he died at the age of 59 from appendicitis, an abdominal problem that is easily corrected today.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TOMORROW: A New Burn Remedy.

MEMORY PROBLEM

Mrs. J. B. writes: I am 76 and in good health, I always had a good memory but lately have had trouble remembering the names of friends and similar details, yet I have no difficulty recalling the words of poems and hymns I learned as a child. Can you advise?

REPLY

There is no need for concern because, as we grow older, there is a tendency to remember events of distant days and forget the recent past.

SILICOSIS

L. M. K. writes: Is there any way to dissolve lung dust in silicosis?

REPLY

No, because the particles are embedded in the walls and surrounding tissues of the respiratory passageways. The chemical continues to irritate the membranes and leads to scar formation. Further involvement is prevented by avoiding additional exposure.

BABY'S FACE

Mrs. J. writes: My 8-month-old granddaughter has a crooked face; her left cheek is too full and her forehead is uneven. Can anything be done for her?

REPLY

This is too important a matter to be answered through a newspaper. Consult your family physician who will confirm or discount this and suggest appropriate measures if it is true.

NEW TURTLE CLUB MEMBERS

Ben Bumbarger, an employee of Hunkin-Conkey Construction Company, became a member of the famed Turtle Club recently because a hard hat, worn at his work, saved him from serious injury. Bumbarger was working at the intake area of the power house construction at the Kinzua Dam on January 27, 1967 when a concrete pouring pipe swung free and hit him on the head. His safety hat deflected the blow. Left to right in the photo are: Hank Caldwell, superintendent; Ben Bumbarger; and Red Barber, safety engineer. (Photo by Neal)

PENN STARTERS REPORT:

Slowdown Affecting State

The slowdown in national industrial production that has been underway for the past several months is spilling over into other sectors of the economy and is having adverse effects on business conditions in Pennsylvania, business analysts at The Pennsylvania State University report.

They also note in the Pennsylvania Business Survey that the impact has been the sharpest on manufacturing firms in the state since they tend to form the strongest economic link between Pennsylvania and the rest of the Nation.

"Fortunately," they point out, "the main effect was largely a reduction in working hours and payrolls rather than a reduction in jobs and an increase in unemployment."

Total factory hours worked and total factory payrolls both fell in February by about 5 percent from their January levels; the average factory workweek was reduced by more than an hour and the total number of jobs in manufacturing was down after holding nearly steady for six months.

Employment in nonmanufacturing industries remained stable in February and construction activity remained high in January and February.

By and large, the Penn State analysts note, the short-run business prospects for the state are strongly bound to national economic activity and it is hoped that Federal stabilization policy will succeed in preventing a "rolling adjustment" from turning into a general recession. Some forecasts call for a little more than a stable economy through the first half of this year; thereafter, there are signs of potential strength.

Steel production in Pennsylvania mills during February continued at about the same daily rate as during January. Total tonnage was just short of 2.4 million tons for an annual rate of 31 million tons, only slightly below last year's actual output of 32 million. More recent weekly indexes suggest the March operating rate will be about the same as February.

Retail sales figures for Pennsylvania, which are not reported as promptly as other information, indicate an estimated volume of nearly 1.3 billion dollars in January, for a 5 percent gain over the year-ago level.

Panic Buying Stripped Supermarket Shelves

NEW YORK (AP) — A wave of panic buying stripped some supermarket shelves in Chicago this week in the wake of the trucking industry contract dispute.

The same thing happened during the winter snowstorms. Whether it is weather or labor problems, the effect may be the same in the supermarkets: limited supplies and higher prices.

Wholesale milk prices went up this week.

Egg prices rose sharply—1 to 4 cents a dozen in New York City—after weeks of decline.

Canned orange juice prices also were raised.

Frozen limeade concentrate, canned corn and apricot prices also are headed higher. But there may be bargains on frozen brussels sprouts, frozen dinners and pies, tomato sauce, catsup, dietetic fruit cocktail and canned apple, grape, orange, cherry and fruit punches.

Beef steaks and roasts, bacon and hams are featured at meat counters this week, along with turkeys.

Dry onions are moving to market in the southwest and lower Rocky Mountains, where head lettuce prices are up sharply.

Strawberries from eastern Texas and watermelons from Florida also are showing up in the markets.

Business Briefs

Iroquois Brewery is stepping up its participation in community events as part of its sales promotions. James E. Mikoll of Cheektowaga, N.Y. heads the promotional staff, which will schedule in-store promotions and participation in parades, carnivals, and fairs.

Employment in Pennsylvania struggled upward during March, the Department of Labor and Industry reported. Unemployed ranks dropped as 6,000 found work, making the non-working number 172,000. The rate of unemployment was 3.6 percent. The return of construction and retail merchandising workers from seasonal layoffs was the prime reason for the upward trend.

Purchasing agents from Warren and Jamestown areas will meet today at 6:30 p.m. in the Hotel Jamestown to hear Warner McVicar, director of purchasing and traffic of Rockwell Manufacturing Co., Pittsburgh. He will speak on the role of purchasing in company profits.

Johnsonburg Budget

JOHNSONBURG — The Johnsonburg Area School District budget for the next fiscal year is $921,000. The board of education passed a tentative budget on Monday.

State Bans Safeguard Mutual

HARRISBURG (AP)—David G. Maxwell, state insurance commissioner, ordered the Safeguard Mutual Insurance Co. of Philadelphia yesterday to stop doing business in Pennsylvania.

He said the order prohibits the firm from issuing policies, transferring property or paying out any money without his written approval.

In addition, he said he and Attorney General William C. Sennett are filing a suit in Commonwealth Court here asking that a statutory liquidator be appointed for the firm.

A hearing on the petition should be held in about 30 days, he said.

He said he was taking the action because Safeguard "in my judgment is financially unstable and its practices are not in the best interest of the policyholders and claimants."

He also said it has violated and "is now operating in violation" of Pennsylvania insurance laws.

He said that based on financial statements of late last year, the company would be able to pay claims that are now outstanding.

Area Arrow Meet Set Here

Ron Irwin of Chandelers Valley a vice-chief of the Order of the Arrow, will participate in a special planning session at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 23 at Boy Scout Camp Olmsted for an area summer conference set for Camp Olmsted for August 18, 19 and 20. Representatives from nine lodges of Order of the Arrow will attend.

The area includes Erie, Oil City, Bradford, Warren, DuBois, Sharon, New Castle, and Johnstown, Pa., and Cumberland, Md.

Scout Executive William Wolfersberger says it has been a decade since an area conference of Order of the Arrow has met here, in 1957.

In August 250 members of nine Order of the Arrow lodges will attend the summer conference at Camp Olmsted.

Order of the Arrow is the national brotherhood of Scout campers. Its purpose is to recognize campers who best exemplify the Scout Oath and Law in their daily lives and to develop and maintain camping traditions and spirit. The honor of becoming a member of the Order of the Arrow is one that no Scout can set out to deliberately earn on his own. It is bestowed on a Scout by his fellow campers, when he has proved himself worthy of receiving it, by being an outstanding Scout in his patrol and his troop, and a good and unselfish camper.

To become a member of the Order of the Arrow a Scout or Explorer is chosen by vote of the boys in his unit. This is a unique feature of the Order, since the majority of those who select their candidates for the honor are not themselves members of the lodge. Candidates are chosen on a basis of being a true Scout or Explorer and a qualified camper.

Council Boy Scouting News

A leader training session for leaders of Boy Scout troops, Cub Scout packs and Explorer posts of Chief Cornplanter Council, Boy Scouts of America, is scheduled at Camp Olmsted Friday and Saturday, April 21 and 22.

Charles S. Griffin, assistant national director of Rural Scouting Service will be in Warren at the service of the local council in their program of rural extension of the Scouting program, May 10 through 12.

At Chief Cornplanter Boy Scout Council headquarters, the score has been posted of all Scout Troops and Cub Packs who have 100 per cent subscriptions for all members to the official Boy Scout publication, "Boy's Life." In case two or more Scouts or Scouts and Cubs are in the same family, one subscription in the family counts for all.

The 100 per cent units are: Troop 5, Warren Elk's Club, James Caffey Scoutmaster, Troop 8, 1st Presbyterian Church, John McFate Scoutmaster, Troop 12, 1st Lutheran Church, John Bamber Scoutmaster, Troop 17, American Legion, Conrad Ross Scoutmaster, Troop 21, 1st Methodist Church, Kenneth Matthews Scoutmaster, Troop 22, Irvine PTA, Dean
